Allied Troops Slash Toward Parallel

Five Columns Only 17 Miles From Old Line

Patrols Scatter Red Rear-Guards

TOKYO, Tuesday, March 20 (AP)—Five powerful Allied columns thrust northward within 17 miles of Korea's critical 38th parallel Monday against little or no opposition from Communists retreating along the entire front.

Armored U. S. Eighth Army tank-infantry patrols slashed miles ahead of these main Allied forces, scattering feeble Red rear-guards who sought only to delay, not stop the advance.

While the patrols darted ahead to within a few miles of the parallel at some points, the Eighth Army lifted security wraps for the first time in 83 hours on its main positions. A spokesman announced:

"Holding elements are 17 miles from the 38th parallel at five points along the trans-peninsula United Nations fronts."

The term "holding elements" evidently meant forces strong enough to hold their positions even if the Reds should attempt sizable counterattacks.

The five points were not named.

Censors permitted AP Correspondent William C. Barnard to say, however, that two American columns pushing north on Chunchon were hit by small Communist bands.

Contrary to earlier reports, the Chinese were reported digging in south of Chunchon Monday. On Sunday field commanders were convinced Chunchon had been abandoned.

Fires were seen in Chunchon Monday night. Whether they were demolition—set or were Communist campfires was not clear. The town is eight miles south of parallel 38.

Eager South Korean troops, pushing on Chunchon from the southwest splashed and swam across the Hongchon River.

On the western front, an armored American patrol, edging northward from Seoul, dispersed a handful of Reds only two miles south of Uijongbu. That highway junction is 12 miles north of Seoul and 18 air miles south of the 38th parallel.

The Communist intentions remained an enigma to Allied commanders.

Opinion at Eighth Army headquarters on Chinese strategy, said Correspondent Leif Erickson, ran along these lines:

1. The Communists may hope to "suck in" the Eighth Army to extend its supply lines, thus make them vulnerable to counterattacks.

2. The Reds may also hope, by pulling back north of 38, to create disunity among the Allies and provoke renewed debate in Washington and London on what to do when the border is reached.

ON HER IT LOOKS GOOD—Lvainia Alberi demonstrates how a pretty girl might wear the latest type of radiation-detection instrument during an exhibition in Washington at the Atomic Energy Commission where she is secretary to the general counsel. AEC officials said the instrument weighs about three pounds and is powered by a couple of flashlight batteries. Employing the principle of a Geiger counter, the indicator needle points to green, yellow or red according to the amount of radiation detected.

Senate Group Will Continue Probe Of RFC

Ex-Rep. Casey Quits As Johnston Aide

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark.) announced tonight that his Senate Banking subcommittee will continue indefinitely its investigation of an alleged "influence ring" operating around the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Fulbright said the subcommittee will hear testimony next week from Sen. Murray (D-Mont.), who demanded an opportunity to be heard, and from former Rep. Joseph E. Casey (D-Mass).

Murray's name figured in the current inquiry in testimony that he plugged for a $1,000,000 RFC loan to the Sorrento Hotel in Miami Beach, Fla. The testimony brought out that Murray's son, James, received $21,000 in fees for acting as attorney in the Sorrento case and in other RFC loans in the Florida resort center. Murray has defended his action as "routine" and in line with "established congressional practices."

In other fast-breaking developments:

1. Former Congressman Casey resigned today as congressional liaison man for Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston. Casey wrote Johnston he was stepping out "to relieve you of any unmerited embarrassment" in connection with the RFC probe.

Casey told the subcommittee a week ago that he invested $20,000 in a deal in surplus government tankers and made a profit of $250,000. He denied anything improper.

2. RFC Director C. Edward Rowe testified President Truman appointed him to the RFC in August, 1950, with orders that the big federal lending agency, already under fire, "needed to be cleaned up."

Mr. Truman shook up the RFC at that time. A new outbreak of criticism, based on charges that RFC directors yielded to outside influence, has since been waved aside by Mr. Truman as asinine.

3. Chairman Fulbright and his subcommittee sharply questioned Rowe and RFC Director Walter L. Dunham behind closed doors on their conflicting testimony about an alleged move to get Dunham to resign.

Dunham swore Rowe tried to make him a "goat" of the Senate inquiry. Rowe hotly denied it.

Fulbright's announcement that the inquiry will go forward indefinitely followed growing demands by some Republicans in Congress that the investigation should be continued until "the rug has been pulled clear back."

O'Dwyer Before Crime Probers

Probers Refuse To Go To Albany To Hear Dewey

ALBANY, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey agreed tonight to give Senate crime probers his views publicly on organized crime—if they would come to Albany.

In New York City, the Senate committee's chairman said of the Governor's proposal:

"We have no intention of going to Albany."

The Committee had invited Dewey earlier today to make a statement on explosive testimony from state police officials concerning wide open gambling at Saratoga Springs.

Testimony brought out that a state police report that showed gambling flourished during the 1947 horse racing season at Saratoga was "pigeonholed."

Bill Extending Rent Controls Sent To Truman

Farm Price Freeze At Parity Ordered

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Congress sent to President Truman today a bill extending present rent controls for some 1,300 communities and in another anti-inflation move, the government ordered an automatic freze on most farm prices when they reach parity.

Meanwhile, prospects were dim for a quick settlement of the high policy row over setting up a wage board satisfactory to labor and industry.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston flew to Key West, Fla., for talks with President Truman on the scrap.

Walkout Paralyzes WSB

Labor members have walked out of the government's entire mobilization program in protest against an order limiting wage increases to 10 per cent above January, 1950, levels.

The walkout has paralyzed the Wage Stabilization Board. Labor has also threatened strikes soon in the shipbuilding, cotton textiles and meatpacking industries uuless the board approves negotiated pay increases above the 10 per cent ceiling.

Action on rent controls came in the House. By a voice vote, the chamber passed a bill extending the present program 90 days, until June 30. The Senate had passed it previously.

Law Provided Local Option

The present law permitted communities to remove controls if they wished. It also permitted local governments to vote to extend controls beyond April 1.

But about 1,300 communities, still under rent control, had not voted the extension. These communities would go out from under controls automatically unless the law is extended.

O'Dwyer Says Racketeer's Pal Aided Him

Ex-Mayor, Gambler Met During War

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Racketeer Frank Costello admitted to Senate crime probers today that he pulled strings to put a Democratic friend at the head of Tammany Hall.

And ex-Mayor O'Dwyer—preceding him before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee — said he probably got help from a Costello henchman in the 1945 mayoralty campaign.

O'Dwyer said the Costello-linked assistance was not his idea and there was no payoff to the Costello gang after he was elected.

The two—the immigrant Irishman who became mayor and later ambassador to Mexico, and the immigrant Italian who made great wealth as a racketeer—agreed they met during wartime at Costello's home.

But O'Dwyer said the meeting was a business talk in connection with his duties as an army investigator.

With this meaty testimony in front of them, the committee sent O'Dwyer and Costello home for the night and directed them to return tomorrow.

Then it plunged into a separate inquiry on Jersey waterfront racketeering and gambling across the Hudson River from New York—in the first night session of the drama-packed week-old public hearings.

Costello's Tongue Looser

Costello came back to the witness stand for the fifth time, his sore throat apparently better and his tongue looser than when he clammed up and walked out last week.

It was the first time before the committee that Costello has partly dropped his cloak of mystery as a backstage political mastermind.

He operated, he testified, as a non-voter, a handy man to have in your corner when there were any political plums to be dealt out.

Costello testified he helped the late Michael J. Kennedy become head of the potent Democratic Manhattan organization some years ago.

He also said he was on friendly terms with Tammany later when it was led by Hugo Rogers.

"What was your ability to persuade politicians?" Costello was asked by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

"I can't explain it," replied the racketeer who once insisted he didn't even have enough pull to get a traffic ticket fixed.

Costello said he never put up any money in a political campaign and never had voted in his life.

But he said he made friends and influenced voters and sent workers to aid political aspirants.

Not A Politician, Costello Says

Despite his pull, Costello insisted that he was not a politician himself in any sense.

Kennedy was a former Democratic congressman and led Tammany from early in 1942 until early in 1944. He was killed in a Washington plane crash Nov. 1, 1949.

"Mr. Kennedy was very much indebted to you, wasn't he?" the Senate committee's counsel, Rudolph Halley, asked Costello.

"In a way, I helped him," Costello replied. "Call it whatever you may. I admit I helped him."

Costello said he talked up Kennedy to Tammany district leaders who were "friendly to me."

These, he continued, included the late James Kelly, former Judge Francis X. Mancuso "and a few others who I don't remember."

Highlight of O'Dwyer's testimony—which took nearly all day—was his admission that he probably got campaign help in 1945 from Irving Sherman, a friend of Costello.

But O'Dwyer said the assistance was Sherman's own idea and did not earn for him any payoff. O'Dwyer did not explain just what kind of help Sherman gave him.

House Will Open Debate On Draft Bill On April 3

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—The House today set April 3 for opening an expected hot debate over a bill to extend the draft to 18½ year olds now and provide universal military training later.

In other manpower developments today:

1—The Army announced its reserve enlisted men will not be called to active duty if they have less than a year to serve. Further, active duty orders already issued to such men will be revoked. They still may volunteer, however.

2—The Defense Department said it has no intent now to speed up college education, as was done in World War II. But a draft official predicted a harmful "wholesale induction" of college students unless new regulations are applied speedily.

The House draft bill as it stands now would lower the draft age from the present 19 years to 18½. It would extend the period of service from 21 to 26 months. It would provide for six months of military training for all youths when the present emergency draft is over.

The Senate already has passed a bill lowering the draft age to 18. The Senate bill extends the period of service to only 24 months.

Defense officials discussed chances for a speed-up of college courses before a conference sponsored by the American Council on Education. Spokesmen for the Army, Navy and Air Force said they would ask for an acceleration only if full mobilization is ordered.

They said individual colleges may hurry up their programs now if they wish, on their own initiative.

Delegates to the two-day conference complained of confusion over the draft status of students in summer school this year. Students now are deferred to the end of the academic year, in June.

Col. George A. Irvin, field division chief for Selective Service, said Selective Service had recommended that draft deferments for college students be changed from a calendar basis to the individual student's year.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 19 (AP)—Dr. A. B. Smith reported "no change" late today in the condition of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich).

Six European Nations Initial Schuman Plan

PARIS, March 19 (AP)—Six West European nations today initialed the Schuman plan to abolish their national frontiers in the coal and steel industries.

The ceremony took place at noon at the French Foreign Ministry more than 10 months after it was proposed by French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman on May 9, 1950, and nine months after the arduous negotiations began among France, Western Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy.

The scheme to pool the six nations' steel and coal production must still be ratified by the six parliaments against much opposition. After final ratification a five-year transition period is provided to get the plan into full operation.

Frederick Blast Injures Three

FREDERICK, Md., March 19 (AP)—A big asphalt storage tank at the city street department's supply yard blew up today, severely burning one employe and shaking a large section of Frederick.

Two other men were injured slightly. Several persons in the immediate area were so stunned they had to be treated by doctors. Window panes were shattered for a block around.

The force of the blast was indicated by what happened to the ten-foot steel disk, weighing about 500 pounds, that formed one end of the tank.

It landed in St. John's Cemetery about 1,000 feet away. None of the wires, trees, or houses along the path was clipped so it was reckoned that the thing must have been hurled 150 feet high.

Calvin Lidie, Sr., about 42, was on top of the tank and was the only one seriously hurt.

Winter Wages Bitter Rearguard Action

[By the Associated Press]

With spring officially only two days off, winter waged a bitter rearguard action over much of the nation Monday.

There was deep snow, heaped into drifts by strong cold winds in the Upper Plains and Great Lakes regions. And the U. S. Weather Bureau warned in a special bulletin that the storm would bring more snow to parts of four Ohio valley states Monday night.

The bulletin predicted four to six inches of snow for Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Eastern Tennessee and Eastern Kentucky. A similar amount fell in Ohio Monday.

Student Wounds Former Iranian Education Chief

TEHRAN, Iran, March 19 (AP)—A Moslem divinity student, said by police to be vengeful at being caught cheating at an examination, chased and gravely wounded Iran's former education minister in an assassination attempt today.

The former minister, 46-year-old Dr. Abdul Hamid Zanganeh, president of Tehran University law faculty and a close friend of assassinated Premier Ali Razmara was felled on the law school steps by a single bullet in the back. It was at the same spot that an attempt was made to kill Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi two years ago.

Zanganeh's condition was described tonight as "very grave" by doctors. They said the liver had been touched by the bullet and the intestines torn.

The gunman, identified as Nustratullah Abdul Hossein Qumi, surrendered to police. Authorities began investigating whether he had links with the Tudeh (Communist) Party—a bitter enemy of Zanganeh—or the fanatical nationalist Moslem sect, Fadayam Islam, whose ranks produced the assassin of Premier Razmara 12 days ago.

Zanganeh had not been involved in the controversy over nationalization of Iran's oil industry which is believed to have motivated the slaying of Razmara.

Zanganeh has been the target of frequent leftist student demonstrations during the last two years. He recently suppressed a leftist student demonstration.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 19 (AP)—City Court Judge Albert Doub today ordered the Quiet Lunch closed.

Reason: Too noisy.

"Diminished Confidence" In Truman Delays Troop Accord, Knowland Asserts

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today that much of the difficulty in solving the troops-for-Europe issue arises from "the greatly diminished confidence the nation has in the President of the United States."

He told the Senate the dispute between President Truman and Congress over authority to deploy American troops abroad must not be allowed to paralyze the nation's foreign policy during the next two "critical years."

"With the statemanship and leadership in the administration and in Congress," Knowland said, "we have a chance here and now, by negotiation and debate, to hammer out a foreign and military policy that will have continuity after the presidential election in 1952."

Knowland was one of several Republican Senators who spoke on the troops-for-Europe resolution today.

The measure under debate approves Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops into the international army being raised in Western Europe. It also provides, however, that Congress authorize any further deployment of American troops there.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) called for a defense plan resting on "unsinkable aircraft carriers" in England, Libya and Japan. As for Europe, he said:

"The best thing we can do for Europe is to let her alone. x x x Our chief contribution to European defense today is our stockpile of atomic bombs, the production lines of Detroit and Akron, and the courage of our fighting men in Korea. They protect Europe today. They can protect her as well tomorrow."

Both Republicans and Democrats demanded clarification of the congressional approval clause. Their dissatisfaction with its language dampened administration hopes of getting the resolution passed this week.

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) pressed for action, declaring that any delay would be "tampering with the security of the United States."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said there seem to be "96 different interpretations" of the resolution's provision for congressional approval of future troop commitments abroad. He told the Senate it should debate the measure until it could agree on one.

U. N. Unit Votes Red Labor Probe

SANTIAGO, Calif., March 19 (AP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Council voted today to form a committee to investigate charges of forced labor in the Soviet Union, or wherever else it may exist. The Soviet bloc opposed it.

Fifteen nations voted for the British-American joint resolution as amended by France. It invites the International Labor Organization to cooperate with the council to set up promptly a committee of not more than five members "qualified by their competence and impartiality."

The appointments will be made jointly by the U. N. Secretary-General and the Director-General of the ILO.

Russia has repeatedly opposed any investigation of such charges in her territory. In a general offensive here, the West has charged that there are anywhere from 2,000,000 to 20,000,000 slave laborers in the Soviet Union, working under inhuman conditions.

A Russian counter-resolution then was quickly voted down, with only Poland and Czecholovakia supporing the Soviet Union. This resolution called for creation of a committee composed of proportionate representations from the trade unions of the world to investigate working conditions everywhere.

Md. House Tentatively OKs Giving Half-Milers More Of Betting Dollar

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19 (AP)—The House of Delegates gave tentative approval tonight to a measure which would give the state and the harness and half-mile race tracks a greater share of the betting dollar.

Under the bill the "take" from each dollar would jump from 10 to 12 cents, plus the average penny and a half in breakage, which is the odd pennies left over when bets are computed to the nearest dime.

The formula would net the state an estimated additional $65,000 a year for the county fair board. It would mean about $30,000 more to each of the five half-mile tracks and around $60,000 for each of the four harness tracks.

The $455,000 total would come out of the pockets of those who place bets at the tracks.

House Speaker Luber (D-Balto. 5th) aimed another blow at dope peddlers whose recent activities have alarmed state, city and federal officials.

He introduced a measure to confiscate all automobiles used in transporting narcotics.

The bill was suggested by Anselm Sodaro, Baltimore City State's attorney. The city has started an intensive campaign designed to break up what is described as growing use of marihuana and other narcotics by youths.

Also submitted as the General Assembly entered the last two weeks of its 90-day session was the perennial bill to amend the constitution to provide for a lieutenant governor.

This year's version, almost identical to one which failed of passage in 1947, was submitted by Delegate Sopher (D-Balto. 4th).

Under the bill, the lieutenant governor would be elected the same time as the governor, would preside over the state Senate and would succeed to the governorship in the event of the death or resignation of the incumbent.

Sen. Barton (D-Balto. 2nd) introduced an income tax bill which, among other things, would set the rate at 2½ per cent and wipe out

Fleming Nominated Envoy To Costa Rica

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Philip B. Fleming, a top government official since 1939, was nominated by President Truman today to be ambassador to Costa Rica.

Shuffling several posts, Mr. Truman also sent to the Senate the nomination of George Merrell, now ambassador to Ethiopia, as ambassador to Afghanistan.

James Rives Childs, a veteran diplomat whose last post was in Saudi Arabia, was named ambassador to Ethiopia.

Bebler Opposes Group To Spread Titoism

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Ales Bebler, Yugoslav delegate to the United Nations, said tonight his government is opposed to any international group formed to spread Titoism in the Cominform countries.

Bebler said this would constitute interference in the internal affairs of other countries, and, therefore, would be contrary to the basic foreign policy of Yugoslavia.

Bebler spoke on the American Broadcasting Company's program "United—Or Not" which is produced in cooperation with the United Nations Correspondents Association.

Crop Production May Fall Short Of Country's Needs

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—An Agriculture Department report indicated today that this year's production of vital food and livestock feed crops may fall considerably short of the nation's expanding needs under the defense program.

The outlook was most disturbing in the case of corn—the major raw material for production of meat, dairy and poultry products. These are the foods most in demand and bringing the highest prices at retail stores.

The department said fears of a shortage of labor at harvesting time and a reluctance to plow up lands which have been taken out of cultivation and put into grass in recent years appears to be holding down plans for crop expansion.

In the case of corn, the department had urged plantings of at least 90,000,000 acres compared with 84,370,000 planted last year. Today's report—based upon farmers plans as of March 1—showed a prospective acreage of only 85,694,000.

Reserve supplies of corn are dwindling under a rapidly increasing livestock feeding program, and consequently would not be large enough to make up the possible deficit in this year's crop.

Relatives Of Italian Death Train Victims Ask Damages

ROME, March 19 (AP)—The Italian government is being sued for one billion lire ($1,500,000) damages by relatives of some 427 persons who died on what is called "death freight train 8017," in 1944.

The story of the disaster was kept almost a secret at the time. This is what happened:

On March 2, 1944, when the Allied forces were stalled on the Garigliano River line, supplies had to be rushed from Southern Italy to Naples. The Allied command ordered the Italian railways to run a special freight train from Naples to a place in Basilicata—in the arch of the Italian boot—to load ammunition and supplies from secret dumps in the mountains.

The empty cars rolling south were invaded by refugees returning to their homes. By the time they reached Balvano, in southern Basilicata, there were about 600 passengers aboard.

Beyond Balvano, the train entered a series of tunnels. In the third tunnel it stopped, the load being too heavy for the two engines.

When the train was unreported after two hours, the station master at Balvano began to worry. An engine was sent to trace it. By this time 427 had died and less than 100 were still alive.

Wartime secrecy concealed the tragedy for some time. Later, the Allied Military Government ordered an investigation and the blame was put on a cheap kind of Yugoslav coal used to fire the locomotives.

Gunman Threatens Child, Robs Mother

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—A two-year-old boy sat unconcerned in his stroller today while a gunman pressed a pistol against his neck and gave this order to his mother:

'Give me all you've got or I'll shoot the kid."

Mrs. Betty Wiener, 35, said she extended her purse and the bandit took $425.

The woman told police she was going to the bank with receipts from her husband's grocery. The weather wasn't too bad, so she took her son Ira along in his stroller.

Near a Northwest Baltimore intersection a negro suddenly appeared, brandished a gun and issued his threat to shoot the boy.

Symington In Florida To Report To Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., March 19 (AP)—W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, flew in today to report to President Truman at this naval submarine station.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said "Mr. Symington made one of the periodic reports he makes every three months to the president."

Eric Johnston, economic stabilization administrator, flew to Miami tonight and will come to the Key West "Little White House" to talk to the President tomorrow.

O'Dwyer Says

In other hot developments at the start of a second week of Senate crime investigating committee open hearings:

1. The ex-mayor described the old "Murder, Inc.," mob in Brooklyn as part of a national crime syndicate run by a six-man board of directors. The board, he said, had power of life and death over the underworld.

2. Flushed and angry, O'Dwyer, clashed repeatedly with Sen. Tobey (R-N.H.) and finally accused the committee member of taking political campaign money from New York City. Tobey, just as angry, challenged O'Dwyer to prove it.

Panel Hears Testimony On Union Ousters

A hearing for three men who were expelled from membership in Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, was held yesterday at the Algonquin Hotel with three vice presidents of the international union presiding.

George Baldanzi, of the New York headquarters; George Jabor, vice president from Maine, and Charles Hughes, vice president from Yonkers, N. Y., comprised the three-man panel.

Baldanzi said that Isadore Katz, general counsel of the international union, sat in on the hearing but took no active part.

The three men who appealed their expulsion in the international executive council of the TWUA are William Boyd Coleman, Arthur M. Schusterman and Clair R. Mease. Coleman and Schusterman are charged with being Communists and Mease with acts detrimental to the interest and welfare of the local union.

Baldanzi said the panel will assemble the facts in the case and report back to the international executive council at its next meeting. After checking the panel's report the council will make its decision in the matter, he added.

Building Unions To Ask Pay Hike

Representatives of 11 building trades unions affiliated with the Allegany County Building Trades Council will meet with general contractors tonight at 8 o'clock at the Algonquin Hotel to discuss proposed wage increases.

George W. Lucas, president of the Building Trades Council, said that several thousand carpenters, steel workers, electricians and similar construction workers are affected.

The talks tonight will be in the nature of exploratory discussions, but it is believed the building trades men will ask for a general 25 cents an hour wage hike.

Invitations have been sent to 11 general contractors in this area to attend the session. Union officials point out that sub-contractors usually follow the pattern set by the general contractors.

Lucas and other building trades officials said that the increased costs of living make a wage increase necessary. The Building Trades Council president will head representatives of each of the affiliated AFL unions at the negotiating session.

Derby Show Named In Court Action

Suit was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., in connection with a case involving the rental of a property at Hagerstown.

The bill states that John A. Ridenour entered into a verbal agreement with George O. Butts and Jack Curley, trading as Jack Curley's Derby Show, to rent a building at a location known as Uncle John's Cabins.

It was agreed, Ridenour charges, that the rental was to be $300 weekly for a period of eight weeks. All changes made to the structure were to be eliminated and the building returned to Ridenour in the same condition as when first rented. Ridenour states that the rental was not paid and dressing rooms and a stage were not removed.

Ridenour is asking $5,000 for trespass by the two men on his property.

Kelly Union To Ballot On Union Shop Question Today

Members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, CIO, will vote today at the Kelly plant from 6 a. m. to midnight on the union shop question.

Ralph C. Beard, union vice president, has urged all Kelly plant workers who haul riders to get in touch with men who may be on furlough and arrange to transport them to the plant to cast ballots. Beard said it is important that as many as possible vote in the union shop election.

At a meeting Saturday night in the Union Hall, South Mechanic Street, the Rubber Workers went on record as favoring a pay increase for city police, and firemen and the recording secretary was informed to advise the Allegany county delegation at the legislature of the group's action.

The delegates will be asked to review their stand in connection with pay hikes for city police and firemen. The county delegation voted last week to deny any wage boosts at this time due to the tax burden on property owners in the city.

The union also decided to have the recording secretary write to Maryland's representatives in Congress and also to John R. Steelman, assistant to the president, concerning the continued lack of employment in this area.

Beard and Stanley Zorick were named delegates to a meeting April 11 of the committee arranging for the observance of Armed Forces Day. The delegates to the session will meet at the Post Office building with Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, chairman.

Mounting Labor Turnover

More quitting, more hiring, less firing can be expected as the mobilization program expands. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported March 11 that the number of factory workers moving from one job to another had nearly doubled in the last 12 months. The trend had been accelerated in recent weeks.

In January, 1951, the rate of workers quitting jobs was 22 per 1,000. The rate of factory lay-offs—10 per 1,000 in January—was the lowest January rate in four years. The hiring rate was 51 per 1,000, the highest for January since 1947.

The country's labor reserves "should prove more than adequate to prevent any over-all manpower shortage under a defense program of current dimensions." Secretary of Labor Tobin told the Committee on Mobilization Policy of the National Security Resources Board last September. "Despite the special recruitment problems which may face the nation in the next 12 months, it is safe to conclude that manpower will not constitute a primary bottleneck in the current defense program." But high labor turn-over was at least one of the factors that influenced President Roosevelt, in his state of the union message of 1944, to call for a national service law as "the most democratic way to wage a war."

Swayed by the opposition of labor and management groups, Congress turned thumbs down on national service legislation in 1944. The following year, Roosevelt repeated his request and also asked an immediate labor draft of 4-F's. Bills were passed by both houses in February and March, 1945, but before the legislation could be put in final form the war in Europe had ended.

However, in 1944 Selective Service did adopt a "job-jumping" regulation which provided that any man with an occupational deferment who left his employment without prior consent of his local draft board would become immediately available for induction. The War Department lowered its physical standards for job-jumpers and about 45,000 were put in the Army.

In World War I a "work-or-fight" regulation was promulgated in 1918 to pressure draft eligibles from non-productive to essential occupations. Only 2,695 men were actually certified for induction on the ground that they were idle or not in essential work, but 118,541 registrants were notified to appear under the regulation before local boards. Some 137,000 were transferred into productive employment as a result of the order.

Much of World War II labor turn-over was caused by high wages prevailing in war-connected industries. "Earlier introduction of wage control would have aided in obtaining better manpower allocation. . . . The National War Labor Board should have been given specific responsibility to consider the manpower consequences of wage adjustments in all cases," according to a study of World War II labor policies published in the February, 1951, Monthly Labor Review.

Labor turnover, and the allied problem of absenteeism, become dangerous in times of emergency largely because of loss of man-hours and resultant slack production. Their effect can be greatly multiplied in the highly complicated U. S. industrial pattern. Absenteeism or labor shortage in one department of a large plant can disproportionately reduce all-over production. Similarly, absent or quitting workers in the plant of a small subcontractor can cut deeply into the production of a prime contractor whose final output depends on a steady supply of parts from outside sources.

New York Televised

New Yorkers are recovering from a television orgy such as they never had expected to see. Department store sales dropped alarmingly and other businesses complained of a dearth of customers because people stayed home to see the program.

The Senate crime investigating committee was questioning underworld figures, including Frank Costello, gambler and reputed boss of Tammany Hall.

Costello objected to having his face televised during the questioning and the committee let him have his way, so only his hands were pictured on the screen. Anyhow, there were plenty of other faces to scan as the inquiry went on.

Watchers could see the Senators, the committee's counsel, the witnesses, the lawyers sitting beside their clients on the stand. They could hear the voices, calm or agitated, insistent or suave, angry or sullen.

It was like a scene on the stage or in a movie, except that it went on and on. Except, too, that it had not been designed to build up suspense as it rose toward a climax. There were climaxes, but they were likely to come without warning. The comic relief sometimes seemed to fall at the wrong places. It was not funny, but offensive. Yet the drama gripped.

Why not? After all, New Yorkers were watching and hearing the story of their city's shame. They had to believe that the owner of those eloquent hands and the hoarse voice has been a power among them. He had to be consulted about who should run for mayor, he had friends among politicians, he was a gambler but he was fawned on. If New Yorkers had never elected him to office, he nevertheless ruled over them by something in the nature of consent.

So now the people of New York have been given a vivid portrait of what happens when citizens fail to meet their responsibilities. Perhaps they will take it to heart.

Shortage Of Herders

There is a shortage of men who can live alone and like it while chaperoning thousands of strong-minded but misguided females of the genus ovis—sheep, that is.

For the job applicants must have plenty of common sense, more than a little knowledge of psychology, and a capacity for endless walking. Their prospective charges, observes the National Geographic Society, are among the most unpredictable of their sex.

Today wages offered for sheepherding are the highest in the occupation's long and colorful history—about $250 monthly and found (food and sleeping equipment). Yet the shortage of competent herders in the U. S. is so acute that it is blamed for an alarming decrease in the nation's wool production. Basque sheepherders from northern Spain, among the world's best, have been imported in small numbers.

The Basques are reported to have the requisite temperament for the job, which seems to be alien to most Americans, whose disenchantment with sheep tending has fathered the canard that herders are either eccentric already or likely to become so. Actually the opposite is nearer the truth since resourcefulness and understanding of the erratic feminine behavior (most males are slaughtered for meat while lambs) in the sheep family are necessary to match and master flighty woolies.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Cancer Of The Colon

INTESTINAL cancer is the second most common internal cancer. It also is the most curable of this group and generally offers a better outlook than malignancies of the stomach, pancreas, gall bladder, lung, uterus, prostate, bladder, or kidney.

Carcinoma of the colon is not difficult to recognize and treatment is well standardized. But careful questioning of a large number of patients has revealed that diagnosis is delayed seven or more months and as a result, 25,000 succumb each year to this form of the disease. Imagine how many lives would be saved annually if the victims reported to their physicians within three to four months after they first noticed symptoms.

Most of these lesions are bulky and fast growing, ultimately filling the bowel passageway. Others are hard bandlike tumors that encircle the wall and cause blockage thru constriction. Polyps also become malignant. The difficulty in obtaining an early diagnosis stems from the fact that these growths may exist for several months before the individual becomes aware that something is amiss. So long as they do not produce pain, bleeding, or obstruction there is no way of knowing of their existence. Symptoms may occur but they are nonspecific and bizarre or so slight that most of us would not be blamed if we passed them off without a second thought. They consist of changes in the bowel habit such as constipation or diarrhea in an individual who always has been regular. Others experience loss of appetite, gaseous distention, or ill-defined pain over the abdomen. Lucky is the person who recognizes these manifestations because he is the one who is most likely to recover.

Bleeding also occurs relatively early in the development of bowel cancer. When the tumor is in the rectum, the blood may be both light and dark in color and it may escape without an accompanying movement. But, in general, the higher the growth lies, the more the blood mixes with the bowel contents; hence, the darker it appears. When hemorrhaging is marked, anemia ensues. This may be the initial system. The man or woman feels weak, looks pale, and decides a checkup is in order. The physician makes a diagnosis of anemia but is not satisfied because he wants to know why the victim has lost blood. A tumor is then discovered in the physical or X-ray examination. There are many other origins besides cancer of bleeding from the rectum—none of which should be neglected.

Changes in the bowel habit stem from the obstructive nature of the mass. Cramping, abdominal pain, diarrhea, and constipation ensue but distress may not be severe so long as blockage is not complete. The situation now is serious and immediate surgery is needed. Various operations have been described. When the tumor is "caught" in its early stages the procedure is relatively simple. Later, it becomes more radical because a larger amount of tissue must be removed. The outcome depends upon the success the surgeon has in eliminating every trace of the malignancy; even the tiniest cancer cell that remains will set up a new cancer focus, with return of symptoms.

TOMORROW: Smallpox vaccination every five years.

GULLET SPASM

V. G. writes: My husband has trouble getting his food down and the doctor says he has cardiospasm. Is there a cure for this condition?

REPLY

Antispasmodic drugs such as atropine or belladonna are used first. If relief does not follow, the physician may recommend mechanical dilatation. Meanwhile an attempt is made to find the reason why the lower end of the esophagus is so irritable that the entrance to the stomach is blocked. Is your husband highstrung, working too hard, eating improper foods, consuming too much coffee, or does he have ulcer or gall bladder disease?

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Mrs. F. writes: How long must a child with rheumatic fever remain in bed?

REPLY

Until the disease becomes inactive. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on rheumatic fever.

LIP SCALING

Mrs. E. M. writes: A scab forms on my lower lip and gradually sloughs off. Then another starts, which follows the same routine. This is continuous. What should be done about this condition?

REPLY

Because cancer behaves in this fashion, examination is in order. This type of malignancy is not difficult to treat and an excellent result can be anticipated.

NASAL POLYPS

N. Y. writes: Could polyps in the nose destroy the senses of taste and smell?

REPLY

Yes, if the growths are large. The sense of smell is more likely to be disturbed than that of taste.

"Cease Firing For A Minute"

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Senate Chaplain "Gets Ready" For The Communists; Lobbyist Fred Searls Advises Mobilizer Wilson; Senate Committee Gets Frank Testimony From Searls

WASHINGTON — Capitol police were alerted the other day to expect a mob of imported Communist agitators on Capitol Hill. But the police weren't the only ones who prepared for them. Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, Senate chaplain, also got ready for the Communists—by writing a special prayer for their benefit.

The Chaplain was all set to deliver the prayer on the Senate floor, as an answer to the phony peace petitions that the Communists intended to circulate. But when it came time for the invocation, the Communists still hadn't arrived. So Harris tossed aside his special prayer and delivered another invocation.

However, here is the heart of the prayer the chaplain wrote but never delivered: "Open the eyes of the duped who would follow false leaders who cry peace, peace where there is no peace; who use the cry of peace as a green light for aggression. . . Help us not to be lured by deceptive promises of peace that are but the facade of force. Amen."

Lobbyist Adviser

It is almost unbelievable, but Mobilizer Charles Wilson is getting his advice on minerals from a lobbyist for the foreign mining interests.

Wilson's top mining consultant is Fred Searls, Jr., who used to lobby on Capitol Hill against domestic mining programs but now does his lobbying from the inside. In other words, he has been hired to advise what the government's policy should be on securing minerals for defense. Yet, at the same time, he is president of Newmont Mining Company which has a rich stake in South African mines. This is another shocking example of how private interests have infiltrated into the defense agencies to grind their own axes.

For instance, here is the type of advice that Searls has been whispering into Wilson's ear:

1. Searls is against government subsidies to domestic mines, though his own foreign mining interests have received ECA aid.

2. He is opposed to an expansion and exploration program for domestic mining, but prefers to have the government buy from foreign sources, such as his South African mines.

3. He favors a reduction in the appropriations for stockpiling, though this country is still dangerously short of strategic materials.

Searls admitted these views behind closed doors to the Senate Interior Committee, which called him on the carpet after disovering he was Wilson's adviser on mining. Here are highlights from his startling but frank, secret testimony.

"Any type of subsidy for mineral development is objectionable. It tends to socialize the industry," Searls bluntly told the committee.

O'Mahoney Disagrees

Chairman Joe O'Mahoney, Wyoming Democrat, snorted his disagreement and thumbed through an old copy of Fortune magazine. He found an article about South African mines, and read how they received "low taxes and liberal depreciation allowances from the Government of South Africa."

"Do you think that's a subsidy?" demanded O'Mahoney.

"But that doesn't do us any good because we also have to pay American taxes," shrugged Searls, whose Tsuneb mine in South Africa is one of the world's 10 leading producers.

"Unfortunately, a large number of American citizens are paying taxes now," O'Mahoney retorted icily. "You make a distinction between government subsidies to your mine, but you want the government of the United States to deny those subsidies to your competitors in the United States. This raises the question of what kind of advice you are going to give Mr. Wilson on expanding our national production."

"Did you get ECA help to open those (South African) mines?" broke in Sen. Clinton Anderson, New Mexico Democrat.

"Yes," admitted Searls.

"And when those were opened, several smaller mines in this country were forced to close, throwing many workers out of jobs," snapped Anderson.

He recalled that American miners had testified in May, 1950, that they had been forced to shut down their mines, stopping production and throwing 2,000 men out of work.

'You feel you are in a position to give Mr. Wilson impartial advice?" demanded Anderson. "If you can persuade him not to give help to open and expand mines in the United States, then we must look to sources outside of the United States for raw materials."

"Mines come, die off, and mines go. The best way to help mines here is to leave them alone," suggested Searls.

"I'm trying to find out if your interests in foreign mines are so great that you'll be prejudiced in your advice to Mr. Wilson," the New Mexico Senator persisted. "Our miners feel your opposition (to expanding domestic production) was based on your foreign interests."

Patriotic Speech

"I feel the urgency of the war program requires us to get all the metals into this country as fast as possible. Where they come from is of secondary importance," Searls replied in a patriotic little speech.

But under questioning, he admitted sheepishly that his own South African mines sold most of their production to Europe.

"Where do you ship copper" asked Sen. Herbert Lehman, New York Democrat.

"Belgium, France, Italy and England," reported Searls.

"Then the United States doesn't receive any benefits of the ECA help your company has received," observed Lehman.

"That's correct," confessed the man who advises Wilson on minerals.

"I've been very concerned about scarcity of copper in this country. Because there is that scarcity, why do you continue to deliver your copper to foreign countries?" demanded the New York Senator.

"The market abroad is higher than in the United States," explained Searls, not sounding quite so patriotic.

The most angry outburst came from Sen. Guy Cordon, Oregon Republican, when Searls argued that it wasn't "mandatory" under the Defense Production Act to pay mining subsidies.

"That's why you're here today," Cordon, bristled. "Were it not for that, it wouldn't make a damned bit of difference how you advised Mr. Wilson."

Searls also admitted that his company had urged reducing the appropriations for stockpiling because of the need for "economizing." He indicated that he considered the stockpiling program just another form of subsidy for the domestic mines.

At the end of the hearing, O'Mahoney asked the final question: "Yesterday, the National Production Authority appeared before us and proposed a $10,000,000 expansion and exploration program for our domestic mining. What is your view in regard to that?" he asked.

"I would prefer that it not be done," replied Searls. "But I doubt if I would be consulted on it."

"I should hope you wouldn't!" snorted O'Mahoney.

The Investigations

THE Fulbright Committee's term ends on April 30. By no possibility can its work be completed by that date. As a matter of fact, this committee has done so well in uncovering the evil practices in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that it ought to be continued until that cesspool is cleaned out.

We are now informed that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been given a monopoly for the purchase of tin for the entire United States. After what has already been disclosed concerning the RFC, it would not seem that this organization can safely be entrusted with such a responsibility.

This committee could be allowed to die, and although a few individuals would suffer a scant pillory, the pattern of corruption would not have been completed. As a matter of fact, every doubtful loan should be examined and exposed before the Fullbright committee expires.

The ultimate of the Fulbright Committee's investigation would be the closing down of most of the governmental lending agencies. They were created to meet emergencies; they have been perpetuated beyond the needs of the country and therefore they have become corrupted.

It would probably serve the country well if the Fullbright Committee would seek the judgment of Jesse Jones in the course of its investigations. It would undoubtedly discover from his experience that when a government agency outlives its usefulness it ought to be permitted to die. Jesse Jones has advocated the abolition of the RFC.

The Fulbright Committee might also consult the investigators of the Hoover Commission who studied the lending agencies of the government and were not favorably impressed by the arguments for their continued existence.

It needs to be recognized now that the work of this committee has only started; to permit its investigations to die on April 30 would give the crooks not yet exposed safety to pursue their raids on the taxpayers' money. Pressure should be put on Congress to keep the Fulbright Committee alive.

I watched the Kefauver Committee on television for several hours. It was a wonderful experience. I do not blame any crook if he refuses to appear before the committee with television as a witness. The devil is exposed by appearance, word, gesture.

Joe Adonis, for instance, looked and acted like a movie gangster. He was an imitation George Raft. He was brazen. He was contemptuous. When he said that he would answer the questions asked when he had his day in court, he was only maintaining an American tradition which could have won sympathy. However, the way he said it, the way he looked, the cheapness of the tough guy, made it sound as though he meant that he would only answer the questions if he came into a court where he owned the judge body and soul.

Maybe the mob ought to hire a

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman is right when he says it takes 25 to 30 years after a presidential term to evaluate an administration. But that doesn't mean the contemporary verdict will necessarily be altered by the passage of time.

Likewise, the popular impression of a quarter of a century hence will depend on how the history books tell the story. If, as they did in the case of President Grant, they refer primarily to his prowess as a general and ignore the weaknesses he subsequently displayed in office and the charges of scandal that arose, then it doesn't much matter what the sins were—only the virtues are emphasized.

But what do people remember or forget about presidents anyway?

They remember, for instance, that Jackson was the brilliant hero of the Battle of New Orleans in 1813 and that he was an independent, fiery character, but they remember, too, as far from worthy, his doctrine "to the victor (in politics) belong the spoils."

Progenitor Of UN

They remember Lincoln as the man who freed the slaves and saved the union. They forget that he personally paid the expenses of a delegate to go to the National Republican Convention to vote for him—if indeed, they knew it at the time.

They remember Woodrow Wilson not as the president who led the world to victory in World War I, but as the man who broke down in health pleading for a League of Nations supported by and participated in by the United States so as to make the world "safe for democracy"—safe against threats from tyrannical rulers and totalitarian governments. If the United Nations succeeds, Wilson will be remembered as its progenitor.

Mr. Truman mentioned Grover Cleveland as among those presidents who are just now coming into their own. What do the people remember about Cleveland? What do the history books say? They quote more often than anything else his immortal phrase—"public office is a public trust." Despite the fact that Grover Cleveland came to the presidency through political machines—just as did Mr. Truman to the Senate through the Pendergast machine and later to the vice presidency through the other big city Democratic machines—there was no question where Cleveland stood when the issue came up as between political henchmen and the public interest. Mr. Truman may well ponder the phrase that made Cleveland famous and look around him and ask himself if the revelations about his friends and cronies do honor to him as long as he puts personal loyalties above the public interest.

There's another president—Calvin Coolidge—who will be remembered for what he did when the Teapot Dome scandal revealed that during the Republican administration of the man he succeeded—Warren Harding—cabinet officers had become implicated. Mr. Coolidge didn't hesitate a moment. He didn't care about the reflection which his action would cast on a Republican administration just a year before he himself would be up for another term. Mr. Coolidge selected the best two prosecutors he could find in the country—Owen Roberts, a republican, who later became a Supreme Court justice, and Atlee Pomerene, a Democrat and former U. S. Senator from Ohio. He told them to go to it and prosecute and let the chips fall where they may. To him public office was a public trust and not a personal or political trust. And the people elected Calvin Coolidge in 1924 even though the Republican party was tainted with one of the worst scandals in our history.

Truman Has Opportunity

The petty things do wash out. The mink coats and the deep freezers are forgotten in the long run—provided the man in the White House turns out to be not a Warren Harding who, too, was the victim of a misplaced confidence in political cronies, but a president who makes his administration measure up to his own standard of integrity. And nobody can justly say that Harry Truman is devoid of personal integrity. They may say he did a great thing in preventing World War III—if 25 years from now that proves to have been the true measure of our intervention in Korea. But they may also say some day that he repudiated the doctrine—"public office is a public trust."

All the other presidents have submitted their cases to history. They can neither add to nor subtract from them now. But President Truman still has an opportunity by a courageous, impersonal attitude—expressed in deeds, not words—to write the history of his own administration.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON

SENATOR Paul Douglas of Illinois is now one of the half dozen key political figures in this country. As the recent United Press poll of Democratic leaders showed, Douglas is now far and away the first choice of the professional Democrats for the Presidential nomination, if President Truman does not choose to run. It is interesting, and it may be significant, that Douglas himself appears to regard this situation with genuine dismay.

The importance of Douglas as a political figure depends directly, of course, on Truman's real intentions. No one, probably not even Truman, really knows whether he will hand on the poisoned Presidential chalice. But those who know Truman believe that there is a better than even chance that in the end he will decide not to run.

The reasons they give sound logical enough—his age, family pressures, the third term amendment, the fact that Truman suffers from no delusions of personal indispensability, above all the fact that Truman now heartily dislikes the office which he was so visibly enjoying only a year ago. Truman intimates also agree that the President's own choice for a successor is likely to be Chief Justice Fred Vinson.

Vinson is popular with his party, but it is a difficult step from Chief Justice to Presidential candidate. Moreover, although Truman can certainly have the nomination for himself, it is by no means certain that he can dictate the nomination of another. Above all, the professionals are apparently convinced that Douglas is the best Democratic bet to win—and winning is what matters to the professionals.

Startling Success

Douglas does not look like a man who would endear himself to professional politicians. He has a long sallow face, an abstracted manner, and an odd habit of keeping a cigaret dangling from one side of his mouth. His clothes look as though they had been slept in, which they often have—Douglas tires easily from war wounds, and often naps in the daytime. Altogether, Douglas gives more the impression of an intelligent, perhaps mildly eccentric economics professor—which he is—rather than a startlingly successful politician, — which he also is.

For it is startling that after a short two years as a freshman Senator Douglas should be a perfectly serious Presidential possibility. Partly his success derives from plain intelligence and drive. He has established himself as a major foreign policy spokesman, for example, without a seat on the Foreign Relations Committee. Another important political asset is that he is so obviously untainted by the cronyism and influence-peddling which is eating into the Administration and the Democratic party. But his success also partly derives from his ability to be all things to all men.

He is a member in good standing of the New Deal wing of the party, which has lost ground, but which still exercises a veto power over Presidential nominations. Yet the conservatives like him for his stand on spending, and the Southerners do not dislike him because he has never taken an extreme position on civil rights.

Says He Is Unqualified

Cynics interpret this as agile political acrobatics, performed throughout with one eye on the White House. Yet Douglas reacts to suggestions that he might be nominated with what appears to be perfectly genuine distaste. He has repeatedly told friends that he is simply not qualified for the Presidency. He has even talked about deflating any serious Douglas boom with a statement patterned on General Sherman's famous refusal to run.

The cynical might consider even this sort of thing as standard operating procedure for ambitious candidates. But what is certainly unusual is Douglas's unqualified enthusiasm for the nomination of a potential rival. For Douglas is about the most outspoken of those Democrats who are beginning rather wistfully to talk about nominating General Dwight D. Eisenhower in case Truman withdraws. Douglas has even remarked that it might be a good idea to nominate Eisenhower on both tickets, as a demonstration of unity in the face of danger.

Daily Lenten Devotional

THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS

Behold, I lay in Sion a stumblingstone and rock of offence: and whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed. Romans 9:33 (K. J. V.) Read Luke 20:17-26.

How could they put him to death? Paul, looking on from a distance, could come to no other conclusion than that Jesus had been "a stumblingstone and a rock of offense." Strangely enough, a bad world will always lay the charge of evil at a good man's door.

So it was with Jesus. He offended them at the point of their patriotism. Jesus was a patriot, but his was not the patriotism of his contemporaries. Theirs was born of contempt for others, of resentment, of pride, of prejudice. His was born of love for his neighbor, and his neighbor was both friend and enemy.

Again, he would not conform to their religious practices. The prevailing religion was traditional. Jesus could have nothing to do with a religion that left out truth, honesty, reasonableness, and faith.

Then too, he refused to fight his battle and win his cause after the manner prescribed by the people. He showed them how pitiful and insecure were the foundations upon which they were building a religious and national life. Do we act as did his crucifiers?

Let Us Pray: Help us, our Father, to see the thing for which Jesus was struggling and give us hearts to believe in him even though it leads to a cross. Amen.

College Easter Assembly Gives Loyalty Stress

Two Students Speak At Frostburg School

FROSTBURG — Miss Patricia Benna and Charles Sitter, students at Frostburg State Teachers College, spoke on "Loyalty" yesterday at the annual Easter Assembly, held in the college auditorium and sponsored by the Students Christian Association of the college.

Miss Benna stressed the idea that everyone strives for some ultimate goal in idealogy which will provide a guide for living. She mentioned the necessity for such loyalty in the present age of insecurity. She also presented the view that loyalty may be slavery or freedom and closed her remarks with the query "is there a final, ultimate, one loyalty?"

Sitter emphasized loyalty as an intangible thing, but something which gives a feeling of security to the one who possesses it. He stressed the fact that many varied levels of loyalty exist and that some of them are good while others may be selfish, according to each individual's values.

Dawn Fabor presided at the assembly and Maxine Conrad was the pianist. Others taking part were Doris Harvey, Betty Hanna and Carolyn Hull.

Walters Heads Wildlife Group

FROSTBURG — The Western Maryland Wildlife Federation honored George Walters of Eckhart by electing him president of the Federation for his fourth term.

Others named to serve with him are Jack Poisal, Haystack Mountain Sportsmen's Club, vice-president; Lawrence Fiorita, Barrellville Outdoor Club, secretary, and Jerome Wilson, Allegany-Garrett County Sportsmen's Association, Frostburg, treasurer.

The Federation has changed its meeting date from monthly to quarterly. All meetings will be held at the club house of the Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Association. The April meeting will be featured with an address by Harry Barton, a member of the State Game and Fish Commission. All clubs are asked to send delegates to this meeting.

The Federation sent a night letter to Delegate Charles See of the House of Delegates, opposing House Bill 588 to exempt Allegany county from the car search law.

Keyser Women Hear About North Africa

KEYSER, W. Va. — Women in North Africa are mere chattel with no real family life, Rev. Robert L. Bridgers, pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, said while speaking at the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist Church.

Mrs. M. R. Herndon, leader of the March Division, introduced the speaker. Rev. Bridgers said that the culture and religion is Arabic and Islam or Mohammedan. He asserted that polygamy is dying out because of the Christian influence. With the exception of Turkey and Egypt, the women are illiterate, but in these two countries women are being emancipated.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound Helps Alabama Wife Relieve Nervous Feelings, Hot Spells—of 'Change of Life'

Mrs. Gema D. Waites

Peppy, attractive-looking Mrs. Gema D. Waites of 127 Rotary Street, Montgomery, Alabama, is a dutiful daughter and followed her mother's advice. She writes us: "As I am a Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound user of only 2½ months I want you to know how it has helped me. I am going through functional change of life and feel so nervous and suffer so from hot spells, wasn't able to do my work — had to quit work. I have only taken three bottles and this is my fourth bottle. I think it is a wonderful medicine to relieve such symptoms. It sure has done wonders for me in this way.

"My mother recommended it for me. She took it when she was going through the change 20 years ago. Thank you for such a wonderful medicine."

Famous to Help Women Troubled This Way

So many women between the ages of 38 and 52 have good reason to hate change of life. If this functional period makes you suffer from hot flushes, tense emotions, or makes you feel so weak, nervous, restless, hard to live and work with — try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Women by the thousands have reported remarkable benefits. No other medicine of this type for women has such a long record of success and use.

A Distinct Advantage

Regular use of Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress. So try it if you suffer this way — start right in today and take it faithfully. Don't miss a day. Just see if it doesn't help you to go 'smiling through' this middle-age period. Truly the woman's friend!

Ferrier Cops 3rd Straight Golf Tourney

Wins Jacksonville Open, Earns $2,000

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Jim Ferrier, one of the biggest men on the golf tour, today won his third straight on the PGA circuit when he copped the $10,000 Jacksonville Open title by the amazing margin of 11 strokes.

Ferrier shot 68, four under par, over the tricky Hyde Park course every round for 272.

Mangrum made a terrific comeback after an opening-round 77 over the 6,508-yard course, his final 18 was even par 72. Shields, who matched Ferrier's first two rounds of 68, polished off his total with 73.

JIM FERRIER

"I thought par was 68 and I kept shooting at it," Ferrier joked. He had a broad smile, naturally, for his third $2,000 prize in three weeks. He also won the St. Petersburg and Miami Beach opens.

Lew Worsham, former National Open Champion from Oakmont, Pa., and first round leader here, got a share of fourth-place money with Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C. Palmer shot 67 in the closing round and Worsham 71 for 285 each.

Five of the touring pros finished at 286. Among them was Art Wall, Jr., Bronxville, N. Y., hole in one specialist, who started the final round in second place but slipped to 77. The others at 286 were Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass.; Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., Jackson Bradley of Chicago, and Dave Douglas of Newark, Del.

Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., was the only other man below par for the 72 holes. He had 287 for eleventh place.

Honus Is Grandpop

PITTSBURGH, March 19 (AP)—Old Honus Wagner, baseball's great shortstop of yesteryear, bubbled over with joy today as he telephoned the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

"I'm a grandpop," he chortled. "How'd you like that?

I'm very happy. This is the first time."

Stiteler Says He Told Untruth About Beating

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., March 19 (AP) — Harry Stiteler admitted today he hadn't told the truth about a beating he got in Houston. His offer to resign as Texas A. & M. football coach was immediately accepted.

"I'll be looking for something else," he said early tonight.

The small, silver-haired coach was beaten on Dec. 15, 1950, shortly after arriving in Houston. He was on his way to attend a banquet honoring his team — the most successful A. & M. eleven in almost a decade.

Stiteler said after the incident was publicized that he did not know the man who attacked him and that it was a case of mistaken identity.

Today he admitted in a statement to the Associated Press that this was not true: that he knew his assailant, and that the attack resulted from personal differences. He still refused to name his attacker.

"It's just one of those things," he said tonight. "There's not much else to say.

"My associations with these kids down here have been wonderful."

Graziano Stops Jones In Third

MIAMI, Fla., March 19 (AP) — Former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano, battling for a new shot at the title, battered Reuben Jones to the canvas in 1:18 of the third round in a savage slugging match at Miami Stadium tonight.

A straight right to the jaw knocked the tough Norfolk, Va., fighter on his back after a sharp exchange of blows along the ropes. Jones came up with the nine count but fell forward on his face.

After taking the ten count, Jones came to his feet and tried to get at Rocky again but his seconds dragged him to his corner.

The 29-year-old Graziano, who lost the middleweight championship to Tony Zale in 1948, is gunning for a shot at middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson. Robinson, who is scheduled to fight Holly Mims of Baltimore here April 5, did not attend tonight's fight.

High School League To Draft Schedule At Meeting Today

Representatives of schools of the Bi-State Baseball Conference will meet today at 4 p. m., at Allegany High School to draft a schedule for the 1951 season.

Seven schools were in the conference last season and it is understood Barton High School will apply for a berth at today's session.

Beall High School won the 1950 championship. The other schools in the circuit were Hyndman (Pa.), Bruce (Westernport), Central (Lonaconing), LaSalle, Allegany and Fort Hill, of Cumberland.

Carver High School's boys and girls will compete in the Tri-State Athletic Union's basketball tournament at Potomac State School's gym in Keyser on March 30 and 31, Earle L. Bracey, principal of the Frederick Street school, announced last night.

John W. Edwards, principal of Howard High School, Piedmont, is director of the two-day tourney.

Four opening round games are scheduled for the evening of March 30. In the opener, Cumberland's girls will play Lincoln High of Rockville, Md. In the second game boys' teams of North Street, Hagerstown, and Douglas, Leesburg (Va.) will clash. The third game brings together the Carver (Cumberland) and Howard (Piedmont) boys while in the 4th tilt, the Leesburg and Hagerstown girls will do battle. Finals are scheduled for Saturday March 31.

Thomas and Howard McGill of Martinsburg will officiate in the boys' contests while R. L. Franklin, Martinsburg, and Barbara Southall Frederick, will handle the girls' games.

Starting time of the games will be announced within the next several days.

Lions Play Big Ten Champs In NCAA Contest At Garden

NC State, Villanova, Kentucky, Louisville Tangle At Raleigh

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The country's No. 1 college basketball team and the only one not to suffer a defeat this season will share co-featured roles tomorrow night in the opening round of the NCAA eastern eliminations.

Kentucky's mighty Wildcats, top-ranked in the Associated Press' final poll, will open their national title bid at Raleigh, N. C., meeting a strong independent state rival, Louisville.

Columbia's Lions, winners of 22 straight games this season and 31 over a two-year span, will risk their perfect record at New York's Madison Square Garden against Illinois, formidable champion of the Big Ten.

These two games will headline opening skirmishes in a tournament that before the end of the week will see a 16 team field—including all the basketball elite and champions of ten major conferences—reduced to two finalists. The title game will be played at Minneapolis March 27.

The western NCAA eliminations, with eight teams involved, will open in Kansas City Wednesday night with Oklahoma A. and M., the No. 2 nationally ranked Missouri Valley Champions, and Kansas State's Big Seven titlists as favorites.

Here's tomorrow night's schedule:

At Raleigh, N. C.—7:45 p. m (EST), North Carolina State (28-5) vs. Villanova (24-5); 9:30 p. m. Kentucky (28-2); vs Louisville (19-6).

At New York—7:45 p. m., St. John's (24-4) vs. Connecticut (22-3); 9:30 p. m., Columbia (22-0) vs Illinois (19-4).

Kentucky, a seasoned quintet built around seven-foot Bill Spivey, is favorite to take away NCAA honors both here and in Minneapolis. The Wildcats have lost two of 30 games—a 43-42 overtime decision to St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl and a 61-57 verdict to Vanderbilt in the finals of the Southeastern Conference tournament.

The Wildcats' path in the eastern eliminations was made softer by a four-year eligibility rule which deprived North Carolina State, the Southern Conference champion, of its three big stars—All America Sam Ranzino, Paul Horvath and Vic Bubas.

Columbia also got some bad news on the eve of the tournament opening. Bob Sullivan, a senior guard and sixth man on the squad, was declared ineligible because of scholastic difficulties. An excellent back court man, he had played in 22 games and scored 70 points.

Columbia's showing in the tough NCAA field will be watched with interest since the Lions, having played largely in Ivy League schedule, are an unknown quantity. It's still a question whether they're just good or great.

Lou Rossini, the young man who handles the Lions' hardwood fortunes, figures Illinois will offer a severe enough test.

St. John's Redmen looked weary and flat in the National Invitation Tournament, in which they came out third best, and may have trouble with Connecticut, a sharp little club with a 22-3 record.

Brigham Young, a smart, cool outfit with two excellent men in Roland Minson and Mel Hutchins, won the Invitation and should be a big threat in the Western NCAA.

The Utah team, trying for a grand slam, will play San Jose State in one of the opening games at Kansas City Wednesday night. Kansas State and Arizona, the Border champion, tangle in the other game, opening the program at 9 p. m. (EST).

In the other quarter-finals Thursday, Oklahoma A. and M. will play Montana State and Texas A. and M. will meet Washington.

Barton To Honor State Champs At Dinner Tonight

Barton High School's Class "C" basketball champions of Maryland will be honored at a dinner tonight at 7 o'clock at the school cafeteria.

Speakers will include J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, Alfred H. Benna, Barton High principal, and Miss Emma Schramm, student council president.

Winner of the Sportsmanship Award, sponsored by the Student Council, will be announced at the dinner. The trophy is donated by Kirk's Confectionery of Barton. The coach and members of the team select the winner.

Ted Williams Is In Middle Again

SARSOTA, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Ted Williams is in the middle again.

The Boston Red Sox outfielder who does what comes naturally nearly 100 per cent of the time—whether it's an exhibition of his sometimes mercurial temper or one of his many anonymous kindly acts—is involved with the fans once more.

Booed Sunday after failing to run out a grounder to the pitcher Williams spat in the direction of the stands.

He expectorated again as he crossed the plate after hitting a home run.

Whether the salivary explosions were derisive gestures, as most seem to think, or just another nervous reaction by a ballplayer is known only by the controversial slugger himself.

Williams himself said:

"I did not spit at the fans. I had something in my mouth and I just got rid of it on the ground.

"I don't care whether they (fans) like me or not. What were they booing about anyway? There's no reason to boo me."

His gestures were made soon after he had sounded off resentfully about playing springtime exhibitions.

This feeling is shared by many, many ballplayers but only a few, such as Williams, have the brass to come out and say so for the record.

PITCHING CAN MAKE NEW YORK GIANTS CLUB TO BE RECKONED WITH IN 1951

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the seventh of a series of articles on the 1951 prospects of the major league baseball teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—With a pitching staff that developed as it went along last year, the New York Giants staged a furious surge in the last half of the season and won 50 of their last 72 games to finish third, five behind the champion Phillies.

Was it a one-year surge? Manager Leo (The Lip) Durocher thinks not.

While he says you have to concede that Brooklyn has the best team in the league, the Lip thinks his Giants are going to be better than last year.

"Our overall pitching is better," he says in between pepper games and fun-making at the old Yankee training grounds here.

"We've added a good relief pitcher in Allen Gettel, another catcher and a terrific infielder, Artie Wilson, who is going to help us. Besides, we've got a good double-play combination in Eddie Stanky and Al Dark and if you have a good double-play combine your pitchers have more confidence."

The Lip continued: "I've never seen a club in such good shape. They're working harder than ever before and getting some fun out of it, too. Our boys look good and feel good. We have no pitchers with tight or sore arms. What I like about it all this year is that nobody is sitting down in the dugout—they're out there working all the time."

The Giants' acceleration at the end of the campaign previously drew this comment from Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies: "Sure they came on, but only after they were out of the race. They had no pressure on them then."

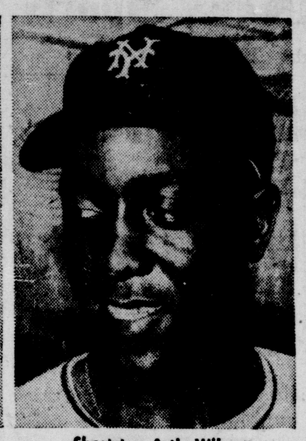

The colorful manager of the Giants refused at first to offer a rebuttal to that, saying, "Well, the Phils won the pennant, didn't they, and we didn't."

NEW YORK GIANTS

Finish in '50: Third
Last pennant 1937
Leading pitcher
Sal Maglie (18-4)
Leading hitter:
Ed Stanky (.300)
(Averages are for 1950)

Later, however, he did say: "We didn't have any pressure on us, et? Well, he wishes he didn't have any pressure when they played us. We only beat them nine out of the last 10 games we played 'em."

* * *

HOWEVER, back to the pitching: Statistically, the Giants had the second most effective hurling staff in the league. Two flingers, Sal Maglie, once in the Mexican league, and Jim Hearn, discarded by the Cardinals, turned in their best years

The Lip believes they can repeat and is mighty enthusiatic about the No. 5 twirler, Dave Koslo, a lefty, who won 13 and lost 15.

"Koslo has looked better this year than I've ever seen him since he was in the minors," says the Lip. "He's no. 5 right now, but he could break into that starting combination at any time.

The Giants' boss named Larry Jansen (19-13), Jim Hearn (11-4), Sal Maglie (18-4) and Sheldon Jones (13-16) as his starters. Gettel, ex-major leaguer who won 23 and lost seven for Oakland, will be the reliefer.

"And I'm going to work these guys in practice games, too," reminded the Lip.

"I want them ready. Every one will have pitched nine innings or more when the season starts. I like to rotate only four pitchers during the season but my four are really going to be ready."

Leo listed Roger Bowman (16-11 with Jersey City), Charlie Bishop (16-9 with Sioux City), Norman Fox (10-5 with Jersey City), George Bamberger (17-13 with Oakland), George Spencer (11-5 with Jersey City) and Frank Fanovich (8-5 with Minneopolis) as good looking rookie flingers, all of whom have a chance to stick.

Monte Kennedy, who had a 5-4 mark with the Giants last year, is being given intensive coaching. And Kennedy, the Lip informs, is now getting the ball over the plate because he has gained that confidence.

* * *

THE GIANTS could use some more power for they were only fifth in the league in home runs last year and seventh in batting.

Wes Westrum, the No. 1 catcher, can hit them far although his bat mark last year was .236. He did sock 23 home runs, though.

A husky Cuban Negro, Rafael Noble (No-blay), has impressed in camp. This guy played in 110 games for Oakland last year and batted .316. The third catcher is Sal Yvars, up from Jersey City.

Leo has some fine rookie infielders but has a problem at first base where his one and only guardian is Monte Irvin, who came up from Jersey City early last year and proceeded to bat .300 for the Giants.

The Giants' head man is giving Whitey Lockman, regular left fielder, work at first base to have some protection in case Irvin gets hurt. Lockman can play the bag.

Too, the pepper-pot second base combination, Eddie Stanky at second and Al Dark at short, is back and looking good. Henry Thompson, who played such spectacular ball for the Giants last year, is the third sacker. Thompson belted 20 homers and drove in 91 runs.

* * *

ARTIE WILSON, the hot-shot shortstop who was involved in that Cleveland-Yankee dispute over ownership, is now up with the Giants and at the moment is Leo's pride and joy.

Wilson, in the Pacific Coast league the last two seasons, had another great year last summer He played in 196 games, got 264 hits and stole 31 bases. His batting mark was .312. In his first year in organized ball, 1949, Artie led the Coast league in batting with a .348 mark. He comes up from Oakland.

Three second basemen, any one of which most other clubs would want, are on the roster, too. The three are Bob Hofman, up from Oakland where he hit .296 and compiled a huge double-play record; Pete Pavlick, up from Jersey City where he was the league's All-Star player in 1949, and Dave Williams, who hit 17 home runs and batted .280 with Minneapolis. Hofman will be kept, it is believed.

* * *

THE OUTFIELDERS are Lockman, a .295 hitter last year; Bobby Thomson, the power boy who smacked 25 homers, and Don Mueller, who batted .291. For help there is Roy Weatherly and Jack MaGuire, utility.

Clint Hartung, the Hondo, Tex., "hurricane" who has been tried as a pitcher the last few years, will be used only as a pinch-hitter and outfielder this year.

Leo is high on him and says the guy has amazing strength and will murder the ball.

* * *

WELL, that's the Giants. A club certianly to be reckoned with if it gets that same kind of pitching.

New Sunoco Dynalube Motor Oil

Combines in a Single Oil All the Finest Features of America's Premium Motor Oils . . . Actually Improves Condition of Most Engines

WHATEVER CAR YOU DRIVE . . . newest 1951 or earlier model . . . now you can give it greater engine protection with NEW Sunoco Dynalube. This heavy-duty premium motor oil not only combines in one oil all the finest features of America's premium motor oils . . . it actually improves the condition of most engines.

If your car's engine is fouled by inferior motor oils and is not delivering the top performance it was built to give, change today to motor-conditioning NEW Sunoco Dynalube.

Check for yourself! See if your present motor oil gives all these great features, listed right on every can of NEW Sunoco Dynalube:

1. Tough HEAT-RESISTANT BODY assures you long motor oil mileage.

2. Fully DETERGENT-DISPERSANT—NEW Sunoco Dynalube cleans engines and keeps them clean. Road dust and contamination from normal combustion are held in harmless suspension until oil is drained at the regular interval.

3. FREE-FLOWING and METAL-CLINGING qualities of NEW Sunoco Dynalube help you avoid costly engine repairs.

4. ANTI-RUST and ANTI-ACID—NEW Dynalube counteracts two greatest causes of wear in any engine.

5. High FILM STRENGTH and RING-SEALING ACTION—insure longer-lasting engine efficiency.

* * *

NEW Sunoco Dynalube is one of the very few oils that meets or exceeds manufacturers' recommendations for all 1951 passenger cars.

IN AAA-SUPERVISED 4,650-mile road test from Quebec to Key West and back, four popular-make cars using NEW Sunoco Dynalube were driven over 2,000 miles, on the average, before a drop of oil had to be added.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (INS)—The Goldwyn girls are coming back — not the originals, bub—but a whole new crop for "The Great American Pastime"—a story built around softball.

Sam Goldwyn just bought the original idea from Norman Foster and Robert Keith with plans to make it late this year. According to Sam (whom I doubt ever saw a softball game) the sport draws over one hundred million spectators a season.

The Goldwyn girls, as you may be suspecting, will be scampering around as a girls' softball squad—but the star role goes to a top comic who plays the manager.

Cary Grant collects $290,000 for "Dr. Praetorius" at 20th—and the same amount for his next two pictures, a total of $870,000!

Columnists used to be begged not to tell about Hollywood salaries because for some mysterious reason it made the public "mad."

Considering that Cary can keep only a few thousand dollars of this staggering sum for himself, after Uncle Sam takes his cut, I don't see who can be angry.

The second picture lined up for Cary is the Ladislaus Bus-Fekete and Mary Helen Fays script of "Sweet Sister" for Fred Kohlmar.

But if you know the original story, a quite censorable theme, I can promise you won't be shocked by the way it has been rewritten. It's practical a new story.

Irving Berlin stopped by to see his favorite doctor, and I asked him if he had any movie plans. He was evasive about that and said there was nothing to tell yet. But he did say that he had given Russell Nype, the sensation in "Call Me Madame," a new contract.

"We signed young Nype originally," Irving said, "at $175 a week. Then we raised it and gave him a bonus. He was eager to make a picture so we gave him a new contract, which gives him time off to come to Hollywood in June. For that he agrees to remain with 'Call Me Madame' for a year."

I asked Irving what he thought about all this talk that Nype was the Duchess of Windsor's protege. Irving said, "Personally, I don't think Russell needs any of that kind of publicity. He has talent and that's what really counts."

Jane Greer, who has been fighting appendicitis for some time, plans to take time off as soon as she finishes "Friendly Island" to have her appendix removed.

Her physician, Dr. John Sharp has been treating her with ice packs. He tells her this is only temporary and it's absolutely imperative that she have her appendix removed.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Peggy Lee, according to a telegram from New York, was a sensation when she opened at the Copacabana. Well, that's what we'd expect of Peggy . . . She's a gal who's got personality and a voice.

Anita Stewart with Art Goebel famous test pilot, at Charley Foy's.

Abigail Adams, all in white, with George Jessel at Mocambo. When George was told she looked like a bride, he said, "I wouldn't know about such things, I'm just the little boy who picks up the check." I love that!

The two happiest prospective parents in our town, Anne Baxter and John Hodiak, were at the cocktail party Cobina Wright, Gene Tierney and the Charlie Morrisons gave honoring Igor Cassini (Cholly Knickerbocker).

The party was a gala affair and went on long after the 9 o'clock on the invitation. But Cobina's parties are always fun.

Danny Thomas has just notified the City of Hope Cancer Hospital that he is turning over his week's salary at the Flamingo on April 5. This should amount to $10,000 and will really give the fund a boost.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

movie man to teach them how to act in front of television, for no doubt this instrument exposes them like an X-ray. It is different from radio because it provides a complete personality. I watched Adonis consult his lawyer on television and I am sure that he made a very bad impression on me.

The Kefauver Committee seems to be going through with its job with a welcome degree of thoroughness. We are getting an insight into the character and personalities of our new masters, who have been seizing the political machinery of the country first on the municipal level. In some places, they have already moved to the state level. How long could it be before they used the huge funds made out of dope, policy and prostitution to corrupt the machinery of both parties on the national level? There is the menace of this gang.

This makes the Kefauver Committee's work of the utmost importance. It, too, should not be permitted to end its work. It ought to be continued until it has smashed the Mafia and sent its leaders to prison. The United States does not need a Mafia any more than it needs Communists.

This country does not need any organization of private persons who exercise control, in private and secrecy, over other citizens and even over the government of municipalities, states and the federal administration. All secret agencies are evil in a free society. They are an importation of deleterious European habits and activities.

For your grace in movement, and your safety as well, follow today's suggestions on how to improve balance!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HOW lucky for all the women with poor equilibrium that a beautiful walk is achieved on two, close parallel lines instead of one! Walking a chalk line would require prefect balance.

But did you know that you can improve your equilibrium? Yes, and gain not only in your safety but in poise and looks at the same time! As with anything else, you can school yourself to acquire balance. If you are prone to trip on curbs or stairs, or frequently have to steady yourself when you rise suddenly from a chair, today's column is especially for you.

Thinking Each Step

Poor balance in most instances is just pure carelessness. Begin to improve yours by giving more thought to all your movements. Consciously judge distances and surfaces with a more careful eye. When you've got the mental perspective of your next action, transmit this information explicitly to your feet; make them obey your commands. Practice on step ladders, flagstones, unevenly spaced steps and slippery floors. You'll be surprised at how quickly your equilibrium will improve with concentration.

Absolute balance may become second nature to you if you also strive for greater muscular control and coordination. Both of these beauty assets are apt to deteriorate with maturity and accompanying decreased physical activity. But they can be recaptured. One of the best ways to accomplish this is with the following exercise:

Recapturing Coordination

Stand with your feet, together and your hands on your hips. Slowly squat so that your knees are wide apart. While in this position, extend your right leg forward with the foot held above the floor. Try to hold this position for a few seconds. Then, bring your foot back to its original position and rise to standing position. Rest. Repeat the squat and extend the left leg forward.

Watch your body line as you lower yourself. Keep the hips under, the abdomen in, and the back straight. This is a real tough one but worth ten years off your birthdays!

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) IF TELEVISION achieved nothing else in its lifetime up till now it has cured a lot of Americans of their illusions about the "glamor" of gangdom.

If I were a George Raft, Humphrey Bogart, Eddie Robinson or Jack Larue I'd ask my movie studio to look around for some different roles for me. Because what the people have seen on their TV screens during the New York hearings of the Kefauver committee has made countless customers recoil in horror and disgust from what they once considered a picturesque modern prototype of Robin Hood.

This is not to state unequivocally that every witness called by the committee is or was a thug. But enough perfumed scum came to and departed from the chair to give a great many illusioned crime-story enthusiasts a more sober outlook on crime and its practitioners.

The face of evil haunted the living rooms along the co-axial cables, bringing home dramatically this oft-repeated and written truism: That the influence of vicious and pitiless men has spread like a cancerous growth through the healthy morality of a great nation.

We have heard a man testify that he, as a political leader, felt it was "necessary" to get Frank Costello's nod of approval before the nomination of a Democratic candidate for mayor of New York City. In effect he was saying that Costello, jailed once for gun-toting and a confessed bootlegger and gambler on a large scale, was more important than a vast array of decent, law-abiding voters exercising the priceless right and privilege of the secret ballot.

We have heard a hitherto honored and respected superintendent of the New York state police shamefacedly admit that it was against "policy" to enforce the state's anti-gambling law, when the target-to-be was any plushy Saratoga Springs dice and roulette house.

We have heard a Saratoga detective acknowledge that he used a police car to convoy money between a Saratoga bank and the city's open gambling houses—the insinuation being that if any taxpaying citizen objected to this misuse of a public vehicle and corruption of a police official, the citizen would be run down, figuratively or literally. And if the cop had a change of heart, he'd be fired.

We have heard a man who has been on the public payroll for better than a decade, in well-paid jobs, insist he was familiar with the likes of Joe Adonis, the vicious Louis Weber, and Al Anastasia, a man who might have been electrocuted for his role in Murder, Inc., if the two witnesses whose testimony would have sent him to the chair had not met with violent ends.

We have heard again that there is a pretty good chance New York police killed one of those witnesses, Abe Reles, while "protecting" him in a Coney Island hotel, and that the murder, if it was, was done for the accommodation of Anastasia.

We have heard witnesses arrogantly rebuke, berate and defy the efforts of the Senate committee to pry the lid from the vile tieups between public officials who swore to uphold the Constitution of the United States but who were, in some cases, little more than employes of murderers, white slavers, and narcotic runners.

We have heard the ornate mistress of one of the most merciless mobsters in our history, Benny Siegel, speak blithely of squandering sums of money which many hard-working, clean-living American families could not amass in a lifetime of honest effort.

We have heard of hoodlums tossing Uncle Sam whatever they saw fit to toss him, at income tax time, and getting away with it—while Joe Blow, the plumber, is given a third degree for failing to produce a cancelled check to confirm his reported $10 contribution to the Red Cross.

And, above all, we have learned that gambling is not the good-natured avocation of the person who places an occasional two-buck off-course bet or takes part in his church's bingo night.

We have learned that gambling is so enormous and its control so tightly held that to protect their rich empire the hoods in charge have polluted officials ranging all the way from the flat-foot on the corner to governors in their aloof mansions.

TV has helped to make graphic the whole revolting mess, and I, for one, am herewith willing to forgive it for its 1918 westerns.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many kindnesses shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved brother, Harvey Brown. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars, also Post No. 13 American Legion and Rev. Donald Brake.
The Brown Family.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our darling baby girl, Paula Rose Greening, who passed away 1 year ago, March 19, 1950.
Out in the garden of life there grew,
A flower so lovely and fair,
A blossom so tiny and precious and sweet,
That the Master who planted it there
Gathered it lovingly into His arms,
And now in the light of His love,
Sheltered and blessed by His Presence it grows,
MOTHER and DADDY

That a man as intelligent as Douglas, himself a potential candidate, could seriously entertain such a notion suggests the extent to which Eisenhower, through no falut of his own, is in danger of being transferred into a sort of father image, with a magic ability to exorcise all the national woes. It also suggests that for the time being at least, Douglas is a sincerely reluctant dragon. Yet time, the pressure of events, and the glittering prize of great office have a way of modifying this sort of reluctance. If the chances are really better than even that Truman will not run, those interested in the Presidential sweepstakes will do well to keep an eye on the gangling economics professor from Illinois.

LAW OFFICES OF CLARENCE SHUTTER, LAW BUILDING, CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

Alexander F. Watkins, vs. Mamie R. Watkins. No. 22106 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The bill states that the parties were married on December 25th 1948. That the defendant deserted the plaintiff on May 15, 1949, without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted since said date, is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County for more than one year next before the filing of this suit, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and her present address and whereabouts unknown to the plaintiff.

It is thereupon this 9th day of March, 1951 by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 11th day of April, 1951 give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this suit, warning her to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 28th day of April, 1951 to show cause if any she may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Girls Eligible For St. Johns Scholarship

For the first time young women as well as young men in Allegany county are eligible for the state tuition scholarship to St. John's College, according to a recent decision by the attorney general.

When Maryland's oldest and best known liberal arts college went co-ed last December there was doubt as to whether women would be permitted to take advantage of the 52 state scholarships to St. John's until the recent action by the attorney general's office.

Worth $2,600, the presently open four-year tuition scholarship will be awarded by State Senator Robert B. Kimble from the results of examinations given March 31. This year's county high school graduates may inquire from local prineipals for examination details.

The second Allegany scholarship to St. John's, which is for room and board as well as tuition, is now held by junior classman John Milton Twigg, Jr. of Cumberland. This full scholarship will be open in the fall of 1952.

"The Authority on Authorities"

POSITION IS EVERYTHING

"POSITION is everything in life." That old would-be wisecrack was plenty haywire, but there are times when its application to bridge would be more than a mere bromide. In some situations, it is absolutely vital to the success of your defense to gain the lead at a crucial stage, so that you may make the killing return. That return may be of a suit which your partner can ruff, or through declarer's honors to your partner's tenace,

City Commends Senator Kimble's Action In Saving Canal Measure

Possibility Of New Business District Cited

The Mayor and City Council last night strongly commended Senator Robert B. Kimble for his prompt efforts to keep the C and O Canal Parkway land bill alive.

On the recommendation of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, the city will notify Senator Kimble that it is completely in accord with his action and will extend every effort to support his plan to further the national project.

The bill enables the State Roads Commission to acquire land to be turned over to the Federal Government for the C&O Canal Parkway. It was saved from an unfavorable Senate Finance Committee report after a hearing last week. Action by Senator Kimble resulted in the measure being referred to a subcommittee for sturdy and possible revision.

Strong opposition from groups in Washington, Frederick and Montgomery Counties had swayed the Finance committee toward an unfavorable report which would have killed the bill. Only Allegany County's delegation spoke in favor of the measure and Kimble's action kept the measure alive.

Opposing parties have expressed concern that wild life in the state has been endangered by the plan and industry would not be allowed access to water in the area thus limiting development of industry.

Proponents of the proposal claim the project will build up industry, protect and increase wild life and fishing in the state and be a tremendous drawing power for tourist trade in Western Maryland.

Another Business District

Thomas B. Finan, former city solicitor, said the plan would undoubtedly open up possibility for an additional business district in Cumberland from the city limits buildings toward Wineow Street.

"It probably would result in a modernization of that section of the city," Finan mused. "Some benefit would come to merchants here due to additional business through an increase in transient trade."

Finan also noted the military aspect of the highway, saying "In time of war it would have great value as a military highway to the nation's capital, and it also would provide employment to many individuals during construction of the throughfare."

Interest Shown

Although members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, have shown great interest in the project, no official action has been taken on the proposal. Leroy Hare, chairman of the local's legislative committee, reported.

Members of the Soil Conservation Commission of Allegany County say that the proposal would have little effect on agriculture in the state but wild life would probably be affected. However no official action has been taken by the commission either in favor or against the plan.

The Mayor and Council last night ordered payment of $60 to the Elks Minstrel Committee for a full page advertisement in the program for the 1951 minstrel. The money will be taken from the Movie Charity Tax fund.

The city also authorized the payment of $20 to the Maryland School for the Blind, Baltimore, for an advertisement in a Dramatic Club program. The money will be taken from the movie fund.

RAYMOND F. WHITEHAIR

VFW To Hold Election Of Officers

Some opposition is expected as Raymond F. Whitehair seeks his second consecutive term as commander of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars tonight at the post's annual election held at the home, 205 Union Street.

Whitehair two weeks ago was nominated without opposition by George Speis, senior vice-commander. At the same time Roy F. Everstine, post quartermaster since 1940, declined to seek re-election and instead nominated Paul W. Moore as his successor.

Also named without opposition at the organization's nomination of officers March 6 were George Speis, seeking re-election as senior vice-commander; William Raymond, junior vice-commander; Thomas K. Whalley, judge-advocate; Russell Reynolds, chaplain; Dr. Richard J. Williams, surgeon; and Edward C. Kilroy, three-year term as trustee.

Whitehair said last night he was expecting opposition with nominations from the floor at tonight's meeting which will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Area Price Control Meeting Scheduled

The Office of Price Stabilization will hold a public regional meeting at 2 p. m. Monday March 26 in the Franklin Court auditorium, West Franklin Street, Hagerstown.

Attending the meeting will be Edgar McShane, deputy director and Thomas Jacobs, district council. They will be on hand to explain and answer all questions on the General Ceiling Price Regulation dated January 26, 1951 and the Ceiling Price Regulation No. 7 dated February 27, 1951.

All area retailers and wholesalers are invited to be present at the meeting.

Simpson Elected New Outdoor Club Head

Also elected were Paul O. Weber, vice-president; Lee Fuller, recording secretary; Van Johnson, financial secretary; Roy Durrett, treasurer; George Keifer, trustee chairman; and George Hixenbaugh and Howard Kuhns, trustees.

A movie was shown and refreshments served after the meeting.

Installation of these officers will be held at 6:30 p. m. April 2 in the club room.

Library Will Close

The Cumberland Free Public Library will be closed all day Good Friday, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said yesterday.

The library's South End Branch at Pennsylvania Avenue School will remain closed through the public schools' long Easter vacation. This holiday will begin at 1 p. m. Thursday and classes will resume Monday morning, April 2.

Home Rule Bill, City Parking Plan Approved

The House last night passed and sent to the Senate bills providing for statutory home rule and a municipal parking lot in the City of Cumberland.

The Home Rule measure, HB523, sponsored by the Allegany County Delegation at the request of the Mayor and Council, would authorize the City of Cumberland by public referendum to amend its charter.

Off-Street Parking

House Bill 527, also sponsored by the Delegation, authorizes the Mayor and Council to acquire and maintain off-street parking facilities. It was amended to include a referendum.

A House bill calling for constitutional home rule for this city is in the hands of the House Judiciary committee.

Meanwhile, Senator Robert B. Kimble, at the request of the city, recently introduced a Senate bill calling for constitutional home rule here.

Favor Constitutiona!

City officials said last night they have no objection to legislation empowering the city to have both constitutional and statutory home rule but frankly prefer the constitutional form.

In a statutory set up, officials said, the city would always be subject to legislative action.

Officials noted the constitutional home rule plan, asked for here, has worked out very satisfactorily in Baltimore and Montgomery Counties, the only parts of the state which have availed themselves of the plan.

Also passed by the House yesterday was SB221, by Senator Fraley of Garrett County, providing for a new charter for the Town of Friendsville, and submitting the charter to a referendum.

City Hall To Close

City Hall will close Friday at noon in observance of Good Friday and will remain closed until Monday morning.

The action was taken by the Mayor and Council at its meeting last night.

City Opposes Transfer Of Racing Dates

Buchholtz Says Plan Would Hike Revenue

The Mayor and Council last night adopted a resolution opposing the transfer by the State Racing Commission of additional racing dates to Cumberland.

The only opposition to the plan came from Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, who said the city receives a large part of its revenue from racing.

To try to limit the action of the commission is to "bite the hand that feeds us," Commissioner Buchholtz said in pointing out that in 1950, Cumberland received $36,000 for its operating expenses from state shared racing income.

Extension of the racing season at Fairgo also met firm opposition from the Allegany County Delegation, which introduced a House Resolution prohibiting such a move.

Senate Bill 76, the city pointed out, would give the racing commission the right to transfer time unused by one half-mile track to another.

The city action was taken on the grounds that economic conditions do not warrant extending the racing time here this year.

Final Rites For Auto Victim Set Wednesday

Driver To Be Held For Manslaughter

A funeral service for Mrs. Jounetia Evelyn Wilson, 24, of RFD 2 Keyser, who was fatally injured in a highway mishap early Sunday morning, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the George Funeral Home. Rev. M. A. Keesecker, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will be in Zion Memorial Burial Park.

Mrs. Wilson died Sunday night in Memorial Hospital from injuries of the right chest which she received in the fatal accident.

The driver Harry Preston Cox, also of RFD 2 Keyser, will be charged with involuntary manslaughter and will be permitted to post bond pending action by the Mineral County grand jury. Cpl. O. G. Webley, West Virginia State Police is conducting an investigation.

Two other occupants of the car Mrs. Catherine Cox, wife of the driver and James Mercure, Tunnelton, W. Va. who were also admitted to Memorial Hospital were reported as being "apparently good" last night by hospital authorities. The driver received minor bruises.

The accident occurred early Sunday morning when the party of four were returning from a Saturday night dance. The driver said he was blinded by lights of an oncoming car. He pulled over to the right and then back to the left of the road when he lost control of the car and plunged about 37 feet over a seven-foot enbankment and into a large tree. Mrs. Wilson was sitting in the right rear of the vehicle which struck the tree.

Mrs. Wilson was born in Hammond, W. Va., a daughter of Leslie C. and Anna Brown Phillips, RFD 2 Keyser, with whom she resided. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Besides her parents, she leaves two children, Leslie Raymond and Ruth Ann Wilson, three brothers, William L. Phillips, Bedford Road, Albert Jerald Phillips, Cumberland and Leslie Phillips Jr. at home and a sister Mrs. Cox.

Weatherman Predicts Snow

Residents of Cumberland and the tri-state area may look forward to heavy snowfall today which is predicted in a special bulletin from the United States Weather Bureau by the Associated Press.

The bureau said that four to six inches of snow had fallen in Ohio yesterday and similar amounts were expected for this section of the country.

"The snow was falling along the leading edge of an air mass which had moved eastward and had stalled just west of the Appalachian mountains," the Bureau said. "A low pressure disturbance was expected to intensify along the front and be located over West Virginia late last night."

Bureau spokesmen said also small craft warnings had been ordered along the east coast early in the day for winds which were expected to increase as the low pressure area developed farther inland.

Highway travel was hindered last night west of Frostburg by fog and a slow drizzle of rain. State Police at Romney reported rain in that area although the roads were clear to traffic.

WEATHER

Cumberland and surrounding sections were drenched by a steady downpour most of the day yesterday but the promised snow failed to materialize here. Some sleet was reported, however. Constitution Park weather station reported a high reading yesterday of 39 with 33 being low for the day. It was 37 at 9:30 p. m. Total rainfall was .75 inch with the river standing at 4.75 feet. Today's prediction calls for rain here this morning possibly changing to snow later today. It is expected to be colder tonight.

New Contract Reached With Clothing Firm

Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) and the Cumberland Undergarment Company have reached a contract agreement covering about nine warehouse workers, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, said.

He said the one-year pact, effective as of March 1, includes a wage increase.

Machinists Join In Campaign On Smoke Ordinance

Lodge Believes It Keeps Out Industry

The International Association of Machinists, Lodge No. 212, last night joined the fight against Cumberland's Smoke Control Ordinance, contending that this is the chief reason why new industry is not attracted to Cumberland.

C. F. Schelble, secretary of Lodge No. 212, said that his organization, at its meeting last night at the Odd Fellows Hall on Virginia Avenue, unanimously added its endorsement to the fight started by the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference.

Urge United Effort

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference recently began a drive to urge all residents and citizens of Cumberland to unite in an effort to have the Mayor and City Council repeal the present Smoke Control Ordinance. The conference leaders believe that the smoke program here is the chief deterrent to industrial expansion of Cumberland.

Schelble said his organization also believes that the condition of Cumberland streets and the odors from the Potomac River, especially in the summer months, are other factors which discourage new industry.

"Not only is the Smoke Control Ordinance keeping new industry out, it also is driving some of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad operations out of this city," Schelble asserted.

City Looks Badly

"It is much better to have industry, with its dirt, providing jobs which enable us to buy soap and other necessary cleaning fluids than to have no jobs with which to buy soap," the lodge secretary declared.

From an economy standpoint, Schelble believes the city could save money by abolishing the Smoke Control Department. These funds could be used to repair the streets and clean up the river, he added.

Continual repair of Cumberland's streets make visitors believe the city is in a bad financial condition, Schelble believes.

"The railroads know that smoke is waste and do not have to be told it is economical not to have smoke," the lodge official concluded.

Five Jaycees Attend State Directors Meet

Plans Completed For Annual Convention

Five Cumberlanders were among the 50 members of the State Junior Association of Commerce who attended a Board of Directors meeting Saturday and Sunday in the House of Delegates Chamber at Annapolis.

Plans were completed for the State Convention to be held May 5-6 at Silver Spring. Headquarters will be the Montgomery Blair Junior High School with the evening dinner-dance being held at the Naval Officers Club in Bethesda.

This year the State Junior Association of Commerce will sponsor the Miss Maryland Beauty Contest. Tentative plans are to hold the pageant at Queen City, Md. The date has not yet been announced.

Plans were also made at the meeting for Cumberland's entrance in the state competition of the National Junior Golf Tournament, a sports event of the fall season. The state eliminations will be held at the Congressional Country Club near Washington, D. C.

The finals in national competition will be held at Duke University Golf Course in the fall.

Tables Rent Control

The Mayor and Council last night tabled for one week any city action on the continuance of rent control in this city.

At present, Cumberland has rent control by virtue of federal legislation.

Long Defends Right To Make Changes In Department; Council Votes Confidence

Commissioner John J. Long last night received a vote of confidence from the Mayor and Council for the operation of the Police Department, including the appointment of Lt. Edwin R. Lilya as head of the department's Detective Bureau.

The action came as a result of a query of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz concerning Lt. Lilya's appointment in view of the fact that the Mayor and Council last September 18 appointed Detective Thomas J. See to head the Detective Bureau.

He said the action made it appear that the Council does not have confidence in Detective See, and added that the former order had not been rescinded.

Commissioner Long said the action was taken since the Detective Bureau has been in need of additional help.

In witness to the need, he said, are "robberies, 'teen age drinking, complaints of a disorderly house on Charles Street and gambling.

"Inasmuch as we had a lieutenant who was FBI trained in the Police Department, and in fact who originally set up the Detective Bureau, the solution was to take Lt. Lilya off traffic and put him in charge of the Detective Bureau."

He pointed out that Detective See has not been demoted and defended his right to move departments around for greater efficiency.

"I am attempting to do a good job," the commissioner said, "and everything that is done is questioned."

Following the vote of confidence, Commissioner Long referred to the surprise raid made Saturday on an alleged bookmaking establishment.

He said the warrant for the raid was issued by the State's Attorney and that more will be heard of the action later.

Deaths

MRS. JEAN ANNE FORD

Mrs. Jean Anne Ford, 20, of 504 Washington Street died at her home yesterday afternoon. She had been ill since last November.

City Junk Dealer Told To Enclose Firm's Property

April 16 Set As Deadline Date

The Mayor and Council last night gave the Feldstein Iron and Metal Company until April 16 to comply with terms of its occupancy permit at 130 Wineow Street.

The action was taken by the city officials after Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, asked that Feldstein's license to operate a junk yard in that location be revoked because of failure to comply with an occupancy permit issued in 1945.

Mrs. Roeder recounted the long history of the business establishment, especially citing the point that in 1949, Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, called Feldstein's attention to the fact that the permit was granted by the Mayor and Council with the provision that the storage space be enclosed with a fence.

Previous Inspection Held

Mrs. Roeder pointed out that on March 12, an inspection of the property showed there was no evidence of Feldstein's having started a fence and that in addition to the 100 feet allowed in the permit, he is occupying 120 feet between the original junk yard and the service station, and 158 feet south of the junk yard, as well as space across on the westerly side of the junk yard.

Repeated efforts have been made by the city for years, she said, to get Feldstein to enclose the property with a fence. There have been many complaints from the public, she added, that the place is an eyesore.

Mayor Objects

Mayor Thomas S. Post objected to Mrs. Roeder's recommendation for the immediate lifting of the permit, saying he wanted assurance that the action would accomplish its purpose.

Pointing to the fact that Feldstein has been a taxpayer for many years, Commissioner John J. Long suggested that a definite date be set for the building of a fence. He added that the junk should definitely be removed from the ball park.

The order, as amended, would automatically revoke the license unless the council's action is complied with.

South End Group Urges Stricter Smoke Control

Program Is Favored If Law Is Enforced

The South End Businessmen's Association yesterday favored stricter enforcement of the present city ordinance on smoke control and continuance of the program, in a resolution drawn up at their biweekly luncheon meeting.

Forty-one members attended the meeting with the discussion of the smoke abatement program as the chief topic. The resolution stated that with the background material developed in respect to the problem during the past three years the association felt that the Mayor and City Council should place emphasis on correction of violations based upon the three-year study.

Stating further that the smoke abatement engineer had reported to them that the present city ordinance was satisfactory the association advocated continuance of the program with more strict enforcement.

James L. Weber also reported to the group that Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder had promised completion of grading and cindering of Fifth Street thru Montreal and Blackiston Avenue. Mrs. Roeder explained that weather had held up the project and that the fill on First Street would be completed prior to beginning work on the extension of Fifth Street. Work in the Mapleside section was expected to be completed by the end of Spring.

Also discussed was the placing of new street lights from Oldtown Road to the Virginia Avenue subway which was promised the association by Commissioner of Water George H. Tederick last fall.

The association appointed Joseph Reinhart to report on the status of the lights situation.

The next meeting of the group will be held April 2 at the Community Hall, Second Street, with Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, as guest speaker. His topic will be a report on the plans for an overhead bridge in the city.

2,800 License Sets Available

About 2,800 sets of new Maryland license plates still are on hand in the office of Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat in the Allegany County Court House, he said yesterday afternoon.

Since the sale began February 26, Treat has had 10,000 sets of plates. Another 2,000 sets are expected about Thursday and Treat is hopeful of getting an additional 3,000 sets before the deadline March 31.

Disposal of 466 more sets yesterday brought to about 7,200 the number sold to automobile owners here.

Some concern about license plates locally developed after Thomas B. R. Mudd, commissioner of motor vehicles, announced over the weekend that the supply of license plates to fill mail orders had been exhausted because of the inability to obtain steel for their manufacture.

House Adopts Uniform Plan On Vacations

City Is Asked To Standardize Policy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19 (AP)—The House tonight adopted a resolution asking the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland to standardize vacation periods for the several classes of city employes.

The resolution sponsored by Delegates See and Reed said the city seems to grant different vacation periods among types of employes despite the fact the charter refers to a period of 15 days with pay.

The resolution added that "it would be helpful to the morale of city employes if all were placed on an equal basis so far as vacation leave is concerned."

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday introduced House Bill 632, which would raise the maximum tax levy in the City of Cumberland for general city purposes from 90 to 95 cents per $100 of assessable property.

The bill was referred to the Delegation for action.

The county legislators, in sponsoring the bill to enable the city to increase its tax for operating expenses by five cents, rejected increases asked by city employes.

Also introduced in the House yesterday was HB636, by the Garrett Delegation, to allow persons aged 70 or over to fish in non-tidal waters without a permit.

Opinions Differ In Shooting Of Kingwood Man

Pickets Claim They Did Not Use Threat

By JACK DAVIS

KINGWOOD, W. Va., March 19 (AP)—The body of coal miner Joe Arnold was brought back to his home town today amid continued tension over trouble between union and non-union sympathizers.

The 29-year-old coal loader was shot to death Saturday night nearly 200 miles away in the front yard of a non-union foreman.

State Police said the foreman, George Burnett Hudson, had admitted the fatal shooting and the wounding of two of Arnold's companions.

Both sides had their versions of the gun play. About the only similarity was the names.

Hudson, who lives near Clay, in central West Virginia, but worked in this northern field, was quoted as saying he shot the man after they threatened him and his family if he returned to Preston County to work.

Pickets Version

The pickets' version, however, was that the three only asked Hudson not to come back to the Kingwood area. There were no threats, they said.

The operators last Tuesday asked for an injunction against the picketing by the union sympathizers. Circuit Judge C. P. Wilhelm has not indicated when he will act on the petition.

The operators think the injunction, if granted, would arrest the current strife before it graduates into more bloodshed.

The pickets, however, believe it will not be granted, or if it is, that it will have sufficient loopholes for them to continue peaceful picketing.

Approximately 60 pickets already have been indicted for conspiracy to destroy property or injure workers going to or from the pits.

Cloyd Uphold, 37, of Kingwood, is in a Charleston hospital with a bullet wound in the left shoulder. The third man, Donald Poling, 34, of Tunnelton, Preston County, received treatment at a doctor's office in Clay. He was struck in the face by shotgun pellets.

Preston Unorganized

Preston County is one of the few sections of the state that has not been organized by the United Mine Workers. The operators say they cannot afford to pay the union wage scale.

The mines in this field produce only about five tons of coal a man per day, they reason, compared with from 10 to 15 tons daily in the larger, mechanized mines with larger seams and holdings.

Anyway, they add, over a year's time the non-union miners make more money because they aren't plagued with strikes or slowdowns.

The union sympathizers point in the other direction. They say there's no job or pension security without the UMW, and the non-union pay scale is too low even to talk about.

Home Of W. M. Hudson Damaged By Fire

Damages estimated at $200 resulted in a fire last night at the home of Wilbur M. Hudson, 208 New Hampshire Avenue. South End firemen answered the call at 8:38 p. m. and fought the blaze for an hour and twenty minutes.

The fire started between the partition of the bathroom at floor level and spread up through the eaves to the roof. Firemen were compelled to chop away part of the bathroom wall to get to the blaze.

The cause of the blaze was not known last night and an investigation will be held today.

Weather Forecast
Partly cloudy with snow flurries today; colder tonight; tomorrow mostly fair.

Allied Troops Slash Toward Parallel

Five Columns Only 17 Miles From Old Line

Patrols Scatter Red Rear-Guards

TOKYO, Tuesday, March 20 (AP)—Five powerful Allied columns thrust northward within 17 miles of Korea's critical 38th parallel Monday against little or no opposition from Communists retreating along the entire front.

Armored U. S. Eighth Army tank-infantry patrols slashed miles ahead of these main Allied forces, scattering feeble Red rear-guards who sought only to delay, not stop the advance.

The exact locations of patrols remained a military secret, with only few hints of their whereabouts.

While the patrols darted ahead to within a few miles of the parallel at some points, the Eighth Army lifted security wraps for the first time in 83 hours on its main positions. A spokesman announced:

"Holding elements are 17 miles from the 38th parallel at five points along the trans-peninsula United Nations fronts."

The term "holding elements" evidently meant forces strong enough to hold their positions even if the Reds should attempt sizable counterattacks.

The five points were not named.

Censors permitted AP Correspondent William C. Barnard to say, however, that two American columns pushing north on Chunchon were hit by small Communist bands.

Contrary to earlier reports, the Chinese were reported digging in south of Chunchon Monday. On Sunday field commanders were convinced Chunchon had been abandoned.

Fires were seen in Chunchon Monday night. Whether they were demolition—set or were Communist campfires was not clear. The town is eight miles south of parallel 38.

Eager South Korean troops, pushing on Chunchon from the southwest splashed and swam across the Hongchon River.

On the western front, an armored American patrol, edging northward from Seoul, dispersed a handful of Reds only two miles south of Uijongbu. That highway junction is 12 miles north of Seoul and 18 air miles south of the 38th parallel.

The Communist intentions remained an enigma to Allied commanders.

Opinion at Eighth Army headquarters on Chinese strategy, said Correspondent Leif Erickson, ran along these lines:

1. The Communists may hope to "suck in" the Eighth Army to extend its supply lines, thus make them vulnerable to counterattacks.

2. The Reds may also hope, by pulling back north of 38, to create disunity among the Allies and provoke renewed debate in Washington and London on what to do when the border is reached.

Six European Nations Initial Schuman Plan

PARIS, March 19 (AP)—Six West European nations today initialed the Schuman plan to abolish their national frontiers in the coal and steel industries.

The ceremony took place at noon at the French Foreign Ministry more than 10 months after it was proposed by French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman on May 9, 1950, and nine months after the arduous negotiations began among France, Western Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy.

The scheme to pool the six nations' steel and coal production must still be ratified by the six parliaments against much opposition. After final ratification a five-year transition period is provided to get the plan into full operation.

ON HER IT LOOKS GOOD—Lvainia Alberi demonstrates how a pretty girl might wear the latest type of radiation-detection instrument during an exhibition in Washington at the Atomic Energy Commission where she is secretary to the general counsel. AEC officials said the instrument weighs about three pounds and is powered by a couple of flashlight batteries. Employing the principle of a Geiger counter, the indicator needle points to green, yellow or red according to the amount of radiation detected.

House Will Open Debate On Draft Bill On April 3

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—The House today set April 3 for opening an expected hot debate over a bill to extend the draft to 18½ year olds now and provide universal military training later.

In other manpower developments today:

1—The Army announced its reserve enlisted men will not be called to active duty if they have less than a year to serve. Further, active duty orders already issued to such men will be revoked. They still may volunteer, however.

2—The Defense Department said it has no intent now to speed up college education, as was done in World War II. But a draft official predicted a harmful "wholesale induction" of college students unless new regulations are applied speedily.

The House draft bill as it stands now would lower the draft age from the present 19 years to 18½. It would extend the period of service from 21 to 26 months. It would provide for six months of military training for all youths when the present emergency draft is over.

The Senate already has passed a bill lowering the draft age to 18. The Senate bill extends the period of service to only 24 months.

Defense officials discussed chances for a speed-up of college courses before a conference sponsored by the American Council on Education. Spokesmen for the Army, Navy and Air Force said they would ask for an acceleration only if full mobilization is ordered.

They said individual colleges may hurry up their programs now if they wish, on their own initiative.

Delegates to the two-day conference complained of confusion over the draft status of students in summer school this year. Students now are deferred to the end of the academic year, in June.

Col. George A. Irvin, field division chief for Selective Service, said Selective Service had recommended that draft deferments for college students be changed from a calendar basis to the individual student's year.

Vandenberg Unchanged

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 19 (AP)—Dr. A. B. Smith reported "no change" late today in the condition of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich).

Senate Group Will Continue Probe Of RFC

Ex-Rep. Casey Quits As Johnston Aide

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark.) announced tonight that his Senate Banking subcommittee will continue indefinitely its investigation of an alleged "influence ring" operating around the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Fulbright said the subcommittee will hear testimony next week from Sen. Murray (D-Mont.), who demanded an opportunity to be heard, and from former Rep. Joseph E. Casey (D-Mass).

Murray's name figured in the current inquiry in testimony that he plugged for a $1,000,000 RFC loan to the Sorrento Hotel in Miami Beach, Fla. The testimony brought out that Murray's son, James, received $21,000 in fees for acting as attorney in the Sorrento case and in other RFC loans in the Florida resort center. Murray has defended his action as "routine" and in line with "established congressional practices."

In other fast-breaking developments:

1. Former Congressman Casey resigned today as congressional liaison man for Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston. Casey wrote Johnston he was stepping out "to relieve you of any unmerited embarrassment" in connection with the RFC probe.

Casey told the subcommittee a week ago that he invested $20,000 in a deal in surplus government tankers and made a profit of $250,000. He denied anything improper.

2. RFC Director C. Edward Rowe testified President Truman appointed him to the RFC in August, 1950, with orders that the big federal lending agency, already under fire, "needed to be cleaned up."

Mr. Truman shook up the RFC at that time. A new outbreak of criticism, based on charges that RFC directors yielded to outside influence, has since been waved aside by Mr. Truman as asinine.

3. Chairman Fulbright and his subcommittee sharply questioned Rowe and RFC Director Walter L. Dunham behind closed doors on their conflicting testimony about an alleged move to get Dunham to resign.

Dunham swore Rowe tried to make him a "goat" of the Senate inquiry. Rowe hotly denied it.

Fulbright's announcement that the inquiry will go forward indefinitely followed growing demands by some Republicans in Congress that the investigation should be continued until "the rug has been pulled clear back."

Frederick Blast Injures Three

FREDERICK, Md., March 19 (AP)—A big asphalt storage tank at the city street department's supply yard blew up today, severely burning one employe and shaking a large section of Frederick.

Two other men were injured slightly. Several persons in the immediate area were so stunned they had to be treated by doctors. Window panes were shattered for a block around.

The force of the blast was indicated by what happened to the ten-foot steel disk, weighing about 500 pounds, that formed one end of the tank.

It landed in St. John's Cemetery about 1,000 feet away. None of the wires, trees, or houses along the path was clipped so it was reckoned that the thing must have been hurled 150 feet high.

Calvin Lidie, Sr., about 42, was on top of the tank and was the only one seriously hurt.

Winter Wages Bitter Rearguard Action

[By the Associated Press]

With spring officially only two days off, winter waged a bitter rearguard action over much of the nation Monday.

There was deep snow, heaped into drifts by strong cold winds in the Upper Plains and Great Lakes regions. And the U. S. Weather Bureau warned in a special bulletin that the storm would bring more snow to parts of four Ohio valley states Monday night.

The bulletin predicted four to six inches of snow for Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Eastern Tennessee and Eastern Kentucky. A similar amount fell in Ohio Monday.

O'Dwyer Before Crime Probers

Student Wounds Former Iranian Education Chief

TEHRAN, Iran, March 19 (AP)—A Moslem divinity student, said by police to be vengeful at being caught cheating at an examination, chased and gravely wounded Iran's former education minister in an assassination attempt today.

The former minister, 46-year-old Dr. Abdul Hamid Zanganeh, president of Tehran University law faculty and a close friend of assassinated Premier Ali Razmara was felled on the law school steps by a single bullet in the back. It was at the same spot that an attempt was made to kill Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi two years ago.

Zanganeh's condition was described tonight as "very grave" by doctors. They said the liver had been touched by the bullet and the intestines torn.

The gunman, identified as Nustratullah Abdul Hossein Qumi, surrendered to police. Authorities began investigating whether he had links with the Tudeh (Communist) Party—a bitter enemy of Zanganeh—or the fanatical nationalist Moslem sect, Fadayam Islam, whose ranks produced the assassin of Premier Razmara 12 days ago.

Zanganeh had not been involved in the controversy over nationalization of Iran's oil industry which is believed to have motivated the slaying of Razmara.

Zanganeh has been the target of frequent leftist student demonstrations during the last two years. He recently suppressed a leftist student demonstration.

Quiet Lunch Too Noisy

Reason: Too noisy.

"Diminished Confidence" In Truman Delays Troop Accord, Knowland Asserts

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today that much of the difficulty in solving the troops-for-Europe issue arises from "the greatly diminished confidence the nation has in the President of the United States."

He told the Senate the dispute between President Truman and Congress over authority to deploy American troops abroad must not be allowed to paralyze the nation's foreign policy during the next two "critical years."

"With the statemanship and leadership in the administration and in Congress," Knowland said, "we have a chance here and now, by negotiation and debate, to hammer out a foreign and military policy that will have continuity after the presidential election in 1952."

Knowland was one of several Republican Senators who spoke on the troops-for-Europe resolution today.

The measure under debate approves Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops into the international army being raised in Western Europe. It also provides, however, that Congress authorize any further deployment of American troops there.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) called for a defense plan resting on "unsinkable aircraft carriers" in England, Libya and Japan. As for Europe, he said:

"The best thing we can do for Europe is to let her alone. x x x Our chief contribution to European defense today is our stockpile of atomic bombs, the production lines of Detroit and Akron, and the courage of our fighting men in Korea. They protect Europe today. They can protect her as well tomorrow."

Both Republicans and Democrats demanded clarification of the congressional approval clause. Their dissatisfaction with its language dampened administration hopes of getting the resolution passed this week.

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) pressed for action, declaring that any delay would be "tampering with the security of the United States."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said there seem to be "96 different interpretations" of the resolution's provision for congressional approval of future troop commitments abroad. He told the Senate it should debate the measure until it could agree on one.

U. N. Unit Votes Red Labor Probe

SANTIAGO, Calif., March 19 (AP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Coupcil voted today to form a committee to investigate charges of forced labor in the Soviet Union, or wherever else it may exist. The Soviet bloc opposed it.

Fifteen nations voted for the British-American joint resolution as amended by France. It invites the International Labor Organization to cooperate with the council to set up promptly a committee of not more than five members "qualified by their competence and impartiality."

The appointments will be made jointly by the U. N. Secretary-General and the Director-General of the ILO.

Russia has repeatedly opposed any investigation of such charges in her territory. In a general offensive here, the West has charged that there are anywhere from 2,000,000 to 20,000,000 slave laborers in the Soviet Union, working under inhuman conditions.

A Russian counter-resolution then was quickly voted down, with only Poland and Czecholovakia supporing the Soviet Union. This resolution called for creation of a committee composed of proportionate representations from the trade unions of the world to investigate working conditions everywhere.

Md. House Tentatively OKs Giving Half-Milers More Of Betting Dollar

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19 (AP)—The House of Delegates gave tentative approval tonight to a measure which would give the state and the harness and half-mile race tracks a greater share of the betting dollar.

Under the bill the "take" from each dollar would jump from 10 to 12 cents, plus the average penny and a half in breakage, which is the odd pennies left over when bets are computed to the nearest dime.

The formula would net the state an estimated additional $65,000 a year for the county fair board. It would mean about $30,000 more to each of the five half-mile tracks and around $60,000 for each of the four harness tracks.

The $455,000 total would come out of the pockets of those who place bets at the tracks.

House Speaker Luber (D-Balto. 5th) aimed another blow at dope peddlers whose recent activities have alarmed state, city and federal officials.

He introduced a measure to confiscate all automobiles used in transporting narcotics.

The bill was suggested by Anselm Sodaro, Baltimore City State's attorney. The city has started an intensive campaign designed to break up what is described as growing use of marihuana and other narcotics by youths.

Also submitted as the General Assembly entered the last two weeks of its 90-day session was the perennial bill to amend the constitution to provide for a lieutenant governor.

This year's version, almost identical to one which failed of passage in 1947, was submitted by Delegate Sopher (D-Balto. 4th).

Under the bill, the lieutenant governor would be elected the same time as the governor, would preside over the state Senate and would succeed to the governorship in the event of the death or resignation of the incumbent.

Sen. Barton (D-Balto. 2nd) introduced an income tax bill which, among other things, would set the rate at 2½ per cent and wipe out

Probers Refuse To Go To Albany To Hear Dewey

ALBANY, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey agreed tonight to give Senate crime probers his views publicly on organized crime—if they would come to Albany.

In New York City, the Senate committee's chairman said of the Governor's proposal:

"We have no intention of going to Albany."

The Committee had invited Dewey earlier today to make a statement on explosive testimony from state police officials concerning wide open gambling at Saratoga Springs.

Testimony brought out that a state police report that showed gambling flourished during the 1947 horse racing season at Saratoga was "pigeonholed."

Bill Extending Rent Controls Sent To Truman

Farm Price Freeze At Parity Ordered

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Congress sent to President Truman today a bill extending present rent controls for some 1,300 communities and in another anti-inflation move, the government ordered an automatic freze on most farm prices when they reach parity.

Meanwhile, prospects were dim for a quick settlement of the high policy row over setting up a wage board satisfactory to labor and industry.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston flew to Key West, Fla., for talks with President Truman on the scrap.

Walkout Paralyzes WSB

Labor members have walked out of the government's entire mobilization program in protest against an order limiting wage increases to 10 per cent above January, 1950, levels.

The walkout has paralyzed the Wage Stabilization Board. Labor has also threatened strikes soon in the shipbuilding, cotton textiles and meatpacking industries uuless the board approves negotiated pay increases above the 10 per cent ceiling.

Action on rent controls came in the House. By a voice vote, the chamber passed a bill extending the present program 90 days, until June 30. The Senate had passed it previously.

Law Provided Local Option

The present law permitted communities to remove controls if they wished. It also permitted local governments to vote to extend controls beyond April 1.

But about 1,300 communities, still under rent control, had not voted the extension. These communities would go out from under controls automatically unless the law is extended.

Bebler Opposes Group To Spread Titoism

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Ales Bebler, Yugoslav delegate to the United Nations, said tonight his government is opposed to any international group formed to spread Titoism in the Cominform countries.

Bebler said this would constitute interference in the internal affairs of other countries, and, therefore, would be contrary to the basic foreign policy of Yugoslavia.

Bebler spoke on the American Broadcasting Company's program "United—Or Not" which is produced in cooperation with the United Nations Correspondents Association.

Fleming Nominated Envoy To Costa Rica

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Philip B. Fleming, a top government official since 1939, was nominated by President Truman today to be ambassador to Costa Rica.

Shuffling several posts, Mr. Truman also sent to the Senate the nomination of George Merrell, now ambassador to Ethiopia, as ambassador to Afghanistan.

James Rives Childs, a veteran diplomat whose last post was in Saudi Arabia, was named ambassador to Ethiopia.

U. N. May Meet In Paris

LAKE SUCCESS, March 19 (AP)—The United Nations said today the General Assembly will meet tomorrow (3:00 p. m. EST) to act on the question of holding next year's assembly in Paris.

O'Dwyer Says Racketeer's Pal Aided Him

Ex-Mayor, Gambler Met During War

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Racketeer Frank Costello admitted to Senate crime probers today that he pulled strings to put a Democratic friend at the head of Tammany Hall.

And ex-Mayor O'Dwyer—preceding him before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee — said he probably got help from a Costello henchman in the 1945 mayoralty campaign.

O'Dwyer said the Costello-linked assistance was not his idea and there was no payoff to the Costello gang after he was elected.

The two—the immigrant Irishman who became mayor and later ambassador to Mexico, and the immigrant Italian who made great wealth as a racketeer—agreed they met during wartime at Costello's home.

But O'Dwyer said the meeting was a business talk in connection with his duties as an army investigator.

With this meaty testimony in front of them, the committee sent O'Dwyer and Costello home for the night and directed them to return tomorrow.

Then it plunged into a separate inquiry on Jersey waterfront racketeering and gambling across the Hudson River from New York—in the first night session of the drama-packed week-old public hearings.

Costello's Tongue Looser

Costello came back to the witness stand for the fifth time, his sore throat apparently better and his tongue looser than when he clammed up and walked out last week.

It was the first time before the committee that Costello has partly dropped his cloak of mystery as a backstage political mastermind.

He operated, he testified, as a non-voter, a handy man to have in your corner when there were any political plums to be dealt out.

Costello testified he helped the late Michael J. Kennedy become head of the potent Democratic Manhattan organization some years ago.

He also said he was on friendly terms with Tammany later when it was led by Hugo Rogers.

"What was your ability to persuade politicians?" Costello was asked by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

"I can't explain it," replied the racketeer who once insisted he didn't even have enough pull to get a traffic ticket fixed.

Costello said he never put up any money in a political campaign and never had voted in his life.

But he said he made friends and influenced voters and sent workers to aid political aspirants.

Not A Politician, Costello Says

Despite his pull, Costello insisted that he was not a politician himself in any sense.

Kennedy was a former Democratic congressman and led Tammany from early in 1942 until early in 1944. He was killed in a Washington plane crash Nov. 1, 1949.

"Mr. Kennedy was very much indebted to you, wasn't he?" the Senate committee's counsel, Rudolph Halley, asked Costello.

"In a way, I helped him," Costello replied. "Call it whatever you may. I admit I helped him."

Costello said he talked up Kennedy to Tammany district leaders who were "friendly to me."

These, he continued, included the late James Kelly, former Judge Francis X. Mancuso "and a few others who I don't remember."

Highlight of O'Dwyer's testimony—which took nearly all day—was his admission that he probably got campaign help in 1945 from Irving Sherman, a friend of Costello.

But O'Dwyer said the assistance was Sherman's own idea and did not earn for him any payoff. O'Dwyer did not explain just what kind of help Sherman gave him.

Crop Production May Fall Short Of Country's Needs

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—An Agriculture Department report indicated today that this year's production of vital food and livestock feed crops may fall considerably short of the nation's expanding needs under the defense program.

The outlook was most disturbing in the case of corn—the major raw material for production of meat, dairy and poultry products. These are the foods most in demand and bringing the highest prices at retail stores.

The department said fears of a shortage of labor at harvesting time and a reluctance to plow up lands which have been taken out of cultivation and put into grass in recent years appears to be holding down plans for crop expansion.

In the case of corn, the department had urged plantings of at least 90,000,000 acres compared with 84,370,000 planted last year. Today's report—based upon farmers plans as of March 1—showed a prospective acreage of only 85,694,000.

Reserve supplies of corn are dwindling under a rapidly increasing livestock feeding program, and consequently would not be large enough to make up the possible deficit in this year's crop.

Relatives Of Italian Death Train Victims Ask Damages

ROME, March 19 (AP)—The Italian government is being sued for one billion lire ($1,500,000) damages by relatives of some 427 persons who died on what is called "death freight train 8017," in 1944.

The story of the disaster was kept almost a secret at the time. This is what happened:

On March 2, 1944, when the Allied forces were stalled on the Garigliano River line, supplies had to be rushed from Southern Italy to Naples. The Allied command ordered the Italian railways to run a special freight train from Naples to a place in Basilicata—in the arch of the Italian boot—to load ammunition and supplies from secret dumps in the mountains.

The empty cars rolling south were invaded by refugees returning to their homes. By the time they reached Balvano, in southern Basilicata, there were about 600 passengers aboard.

Beyond Balvano, the train entered a series of tunnels. In the third tunnel it stopped, the load being too heavy for the two engines.

When the train was unreported after two hours, the station master at Balvano began to worry. An engine was sent to trace it. By this time 427 had died and less than 100 were still alive.

Wartime secrecy concealed the tragedy for some time. Later, the Allied Military Government ordered an investigation and the blame was put on a cheap kind of Yugoslav coal used to fire the locomotives.

Gunman Threatens Child, Robs Mother

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—A two-year-old boy sat unconcerned in his stroller today while a gunman pressed a pistol against his neck and gave this order to his mother:

'Give me all you've got or I'll shoot the kid"

Mrs. Betty Wiener, 35, said she extended her purse and the bandit took $425.

The woman told police she was going to the bank with receipts from her husband's grocery. The weather wasn't too bad, so she took her son Ira along in his stroller.

Near a Northwest Baltimore intersection a Negro suddenly appeared, brandished a gun and issued his threat to shoot the boy.

Symington In Florida To Report To Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., March 19 (AP)—W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, flew in today to report to President Truman at this naval submarine station.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said "Mr. Symington made one of the periodic reports he makes every three months to the president."

Eric Johnston, economic stabilization administrator, flew to Miami tonight and will come to the Key West "Little White House" to talk to the President tomorrow.

O'Dwyer Says

In other hot developments at the start of a second week of Senate crime investigating committee open hearings:

1. The ex-mayor described the old "Murder, Inc.," mob in Brooklyn as part of a national crime syndicate run by a six-man board of directors. The board, he said, had power of life and death over the underworld.

2. Flushed and angry, O'Dwyer, clashed repeatedly with Sen. Tobey (R-N.H.) and finally accused the committee member of taking political campaign money from New York City. Tobey, just as angry, challenged O'Dwyer to prove it.

Panel Hears Testimony On Union Ousters

A hearing for three men who were expelled from membership in Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, was held yesterday at the Algonquin Hotel with three vice presidents of the international union presiding.

George Baldanzi, of the New York headquarters; George Jabor, vice president from Maine, and Charles Hughes, vice president from Yonkers, N. Y., comprised the three-man panel.

Baldanzi said that Isadore Katz, general counsel of the international union, sat in on the hearing but took no active part.

The three men who appealed their expulsion in the international executive council of the TWUA are William Boyd Coleman, Arthur M. Schusterman and Clair R. Mease. Coleman and Schusterman are charged with being Communists and Mease with acts detrimental to the interest and welfare of the local union.

Baldanzi said the panel will assemble the facts in the case and report back to the international executive council at its next meeting. After checking the panel's report the council will make its decision in the matter, he added.

Building Unions To Ask Pay Hike

Representatives of 11 building trades unions affiliated with the Allegany County Building Trades Council will meet with general contractors tonight at 8 o'clock at the Algonquin Hotel to discuss proposed wage increases.

George W. Lucas, president of the Building Trades Council, said that several thousand carpenters, steel workers, electricians and similar construction workers are affected.

The talks tonight will be in the nature of exploratory discussions, but it is believed the building trades men will ask for a general 25 cents an hour wage hike.

Invitations have been sent to 11 general contractors in this area to attend the session. Union officials point out that sub-contractors usually follow the pattern set by the general contractors.

Lucas and other building trades officials said that the increased costs of living make a wage increase necessary. The Building Trades Council president will head representatives of each of the affiliated AFL unions at the negotiating session.

Derby Show Named In Court Action

Suit was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., in connection with a case involving the rental of a property at Hagerstown.

The bill states that John A. Ridenour entered into a verbal agreement with George O. Butts and Jack Curley, trading as Jack Curley's Derby Show, to rent a building at a location known as Uncle John's Cabins.

It was agreed, Ridenour charges, that the rental was to be $300 weekly for a period of eight weeks. All changes made to the structure were to be eliminated and the building returned to Ridenour in the same condition as when first rented. Ridenour states that the rental was not paid and dressing rooms and a stage were not removed.

Ridenour is asking $5,000 for trespass by the two men on his property.

Kelly Union To Ballot On Union Shop Question Today

Members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, CIO, will vote today at the Kelly plant from 6 a. m. to midnight on the union shop question.

Ralph C. Beard, union vice president, has urged all Kelly plant workers who haul riders to get in touch with men who may be on furlough and arrange to transport them to the plant to cast ballots. Beard said it is important that as many as possible vote in the union shop election.

At a meeting Saturday night in the Union Hall, South Mechanic Street, the Rubber Workers went on record as favoring a pay increase for city police, and firemen and the recording secretary was informed to advise the Allegany county delegation at the legislature of the group's action.

The delegates will be asked to review their stand in connection with pay hikes for city police and firemen. The county delegation voted last week to deny any wage boosts at this time due to the tax burden on property owners in the city.

The union also decided to have the recording secretary write to Maryland's representatives in Congress and also to John R. Steelman, assistant to the president, concerning the continued lack of employment in this area.

Beard and Stanley Zorick were named delegates to a meeting April 11 of the committee arranging for the observance of Armed Forces Day. The delegates to the session will meet at the Post Office building with Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, chairman.

Mounting Labor Turnover

More quitting, more hiring, less firing can be expected as the mobilization program expands. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported March 11 that the number of factory workers moving from one job to another had nearly doubled in the last 12 months. The trend had been accelerated in recent weeks.

In January, 1951, the rate of workers quitting jobs was 22 per 1,000. The rate of factory lay-offs—10 per 1,000 in January—was the lowest January rate in four years. The hiring rate was 51 per 1,000, the highest for January since 1947.

The country's labor reserves "should prove more than adequate to prevent any over-all manpower shortage under a defense program of current dimensions." Secretary of Labor Tobin told the Committee on Mobilization Policy of the National Security Resources Board last September. "Despite the special recruitment problems which may face the nation in the next 12 months, it is safe to conclude that manpower will not constitute a primary bottleneck in the current defense program." But high labor turn-over was at least one of the factors that influenced President Roosevelt, in his state of the union message of 1944, to call for a national service law as "the most democratic way to wage a war."

Swayed by the opposition of labor and management groups, Congress turned thumbs down on national service legislation in 1944. The following year, Roosevelt repeated his request and also asked an immediate labor draft of 4-F's. Bills were passed by both houses in February and March, 1945, but before the legislation could be put in final form the war in Europe had ended.

However, in 1944 Selective Service did adopt a "job-jumping" regulation which provided that any man with an occupational deferment who left his employment without prior consent of his local draft board would become immediately available for induction. The War Department lowered its physical standards for job-jumpers and about 45,000 were put in the Army.

In World War I a "work-or-fight" regulation was promulgated in 1918 to pressure draft eligibles from non-productive to essential occupations. Only 2,695 men were actually certified for induction on the ground that they were idle or not in essential work, but 118,541 registrants were notified to appear under the regulation before local boards. Some 137,000 were transferred into productive employment as a result of the order.

Much of World War II labor turn-over was caused by high wages prevailing in war-connected industries. "Earlier introduction of wage control would have aided in obtaining better manpower allocation. . . . The National War Labor Board should have been given specific responsibility to consider the manpower consequences of wage adjustments in all cases," according to a study of World War II labor policies published in the February, 1951, Monthly Labor Review.

Labor turnover, and the allied problem of absenteeism, become dangerous in times of emergency largely because of loss of man-hours and resultant slack production. Their effect can be greatly multiplied in the highly complicated U. S. industrial pattern. Absenteeism or labor shortage in one department of a large plant can disproportionately reduce all-over production. Similarly, absent or quitting workers in the plant of a small subcontractor can cut deeply into the production of a prime contractor whose final output depends on a steady supply of parts from outside sources.

New York Televised

New Yorkers are recovering from a television orgy such as they never had expected to see. Department store sales dropped alarmingly and other businesses complained of a dearth of customers because people stayed home to see the program.

The Senate crime investigating committee was questioning underworld figures, including Frank Costello, gambler and reputed boss of Tammany Hall.

Costello objected to having his face televised during the questioning and the committee let him have his way, so only his hands were pictured on the screen. Anyhow, there were plenty of other faces to scan as the inquiry went on.

Watchers could see the Senators, the committee's counsel, the witnesses, the lawyers sitting beside their clients on the stand. They could hear the voices, calm or agitated, insistent or suave, angry or sullen.

It was like a scene on the stage or in a movie, except that it went on and on. Except, too, that it had not been designed to build up suspense as it rose toward a climax. There were climaxes, but they were likely to come without warning. The comic relief sometimes seemed to fall at the wrong places. It was not funny, but offensive. Yet the drama gripped.

Why not? After all, New Yorkers were watching and hearing the story of their city's shame. They had to believe that the owner of those eloquent hands and the hoarse voice has been a power among them. He had to be consulted about who should run for mayor, he had friends among politicians, he was a gambler but he was fawned on. If New Yorkers had never elected him to office, he nevertheless ruled over them by something in the nature of consent.

So now the people of New York have been given a vivid portrait of what happens when citizens fail to meet their responsibilities. Perhaps they will take it to heart.

Shortage Of Herders

There is a shortage of men who can live alone and like it while chaperoning thousands of strong-minded but misguided females of the genus ovis—sheep, that is.

For the job applicants must have plenty of common sense, more than a little knowledge of psychology, and a capacity for endless walking. Their prospective charges, observes the National Geographic Society, are among the most unpredictable of their sex.

Today wages offered for sheepherding are the highest in the occupation's long and colorful history—about $250 monthly and found (food and sleeping equipment). Yet the shortage of competent herders in the U. S. is so acute that it is blamed for an alarming decrease in the nation's wool production. Basque sheepherders from northern Spain, among the world's best, have been imported in small numbers.

The Basques are reported to have the requisite temperament for the job, which seems to be alien to most Americans, whose disenchantment with sheep tending has fathered the canard that herders are either eccentric already or likely to become so. Actually the opposite is nearer the truth since resourcefulness and understanding of the erratic feminine behavior (most males are slaughtered for meat while lambs) in the sheep family are necessary to match and master flighty woolies.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Cancer Of The Colon

INTESTINAL cancer is the second most common internal cancer. It also is the most curable of this group and generally offers a better outlook than malignancies of the stomach, pancreas, gall bladder, lung, uterus, prostate, bladder, or kidney.

Carcinoma of the colon is not difficult to recognize and treatment is well standardized. But careful questioning of a large number of patients has revealed that diagnosis is delayed seven or more months and as a result, 25,000 succumb each year to this form of the disease. Imagine how many lives would be saved annually if the victims reported to their physicians within three to four months after they first noticed symptoms.

Most of these lesions are bulky and fast growing, ultimately filling the bowel passageway. Others are hard bandlike tumors that encircle the wall and cause blockage thru constriction. Polyps also become malignant. The difficulty in obtaining an early diagnosis stems from the fact that these growths may exist for several months before the individual becomes aware that something is amiss. So long as they do not produce pain, bleeding, or obstruction there is no way of knowing of their existence. Symptoms may occur but they are nonspecific and bizarre or so slight that most of us would not be blamed if we passed them off without a second thought. They consist of changes in the bowel habit such as constipation or diarrhea in an individual who always has been regular. Others experience loss of appetite, gaseous distention, or ill-defined pain over the abdomen. Lucky is the person who recognizes these manifestations because he is the one who is most likely to recover.

Bleeding also occurs relatively early in the development of bowel cancer. When the tumor is in the rectum, the blood may be both light and dark in color and it may escape without an accompanying movement. But, in general, the higher the growth lies, the more the blood mixes with the bowel contents; hence, the darker it appears. When hemorrhaging is marked, anemia ensues. This may be the initial system. The man or woman feels weak, looks pale, and decides a checkup is in order. The physician makes a diagnosis of anemia but is not satisfied because he wants to know why the victim has lost blood. A tumor is then discovered in the physical or X-ray examination. There are many other origins besides cancer of bleeding from the rectum—none of which should be neglected.

Changes in the bowel habit stem from the obstructive nature of the mass. Cramping, abdominal pain, diarrhea, and constipation ensue but distress may not be severe so long as blockage is not complete. The situation now is serious and immediate surgery is needed. Various operations have been described. When the tumor is "caught" in its early stages the procedure is relatively simple. Later, it becomes more radical because a larger amount of tissue must be removed. The outcome depends upon the success the surgeon has in eliminating every trace of the malignancy; even the tiniest cancer cell that remains will set up a new cancer focus, with return of symptoms.

GULLET SPASM

V. G. writes: My husband has trouble getting his food down and the doctor says he has cardiospasm. Is there a cure for this condition?

REPLY

Antispasmodic drugs such as atropine or belladonna are used first. If relief does not follow, the physician may recommend mechanical dilatation. Meanwhile an attempt is made to find the reason why the lower end of the esophagus is so irritable that the entrance to the stomach is blocked. Is your husband highstrung, working too hard, eating improper foods, consuming too much coffee, or does he have ulcer or gall bladder disease?

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Mrs. F. writes: How long must a child with rheumatic fever remain in bed?

REPLY

Until the disease becomes inactive. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on rheumatic fever.

LIP SCALING

Mrs. E. M. writes: A scab forms on my lower lip and gradually sloughs off. Then another starts, which follows the same routine. This is continuous. What should be done about this condition?

REPLY

Because cancer behaves in this fashion, examination is in order. This type of malignancy is not difficult to treat and an excellent result can be anticipated.

NASAL POLYPS

N. Y. writes: Could polyps in the nose destroy the senses of taste and smell?

REPLY

Yes, if the growths are large. The sense of smell is more likely to be disturbed than that of taste.

Senate Chaplain "Gets Ready" For The Communists; Lobbyist Fred Searls Advises Mobilizer Wilson; Senate Committee Gets Frank Testimony From Searls

WASHINGTON — Capitol police were alerted the other day to expect a mob of imported Communist agitators on Capitol Hill. But the police weren't the only ones who prepared for them. Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, Senate chaplain, also got ready for the Communists—by writing a special prayer for their benefit.

The Chaplain was all set to deliver the prayer on the Senate floor, as an answer to the phony peace petitions that the Communists intended to circulate. But when it came time for the invocation, the Communists still hadn't arrived. So Harris tossed aside his special prayer and delivered another invocation.

However, here is the heart of the prayer the chaplain wrote but never delivered: "Open the eyes of the duped who would follow false leaders who cry peace, peace where there is no peace; who use the cry of peace as a green light for aggression. . . Help us not to be lured by deceptive promises of peace that are but the facade of force. Amen."

Lobbyist Adviser

Wilson's top mining consultant is Fred Searls, Jr., who used to lobby on Capitol Hill against domestic mining programs but now does his lobbying from the inside. In other words, he has been hired to advise what the government's policy should be on securing minerals for defense. Yet, at the same time, he is president of Newmont Mining Company which has a rich stake in South African mines. This is another shocking example of how private interests have infiltrated into the defense agencies to grind their own axes.

For instance, here is the type of advice that Searls has been whispering into Wilson's ear:

1. Searls is against government subsidies to domestic mines, though his own foreign mining interests have received ECA aid.

2. He is opposed to an expansion and exploration program for domestic mining, but prefers to have the government buy from foreign sources, such as his South African mines.

3. He favors a reduction in the appropriations for stockpiling, though this country is still dangerously short of strategic materials.

Searls admitted these views behind closed doors to the Senate Interior Committee, which called him on the carpet after discovering he was Wilson's adviser on mining. Here are highlights from his startling but frank, secret testimony.

"Any type of subsidy for mineral development is objectionable. It tends to socialize the industry," Searls bluntly told the committee.

O'Mahoney Disagrees

Chairman Joe O'Mahoney, Wyoming Democrat, snorted his disagreement and thumbed through an old copy of Fortune magazine. He found an article about South African mines, and read how they received "low taxes and liberal depreciation allowances from the Government of South Africa."

"Do you think that's a subsidy?" demanded O'Mahoney.

"But that doesn't do us any good because we also have to pay American taxes," shrugged Searls, whose Tsuneb mine in South Africa is one of the world's 10 leading producers.

"Unfortunately, a large number of American citizens are paying taxes now," O'Mahoney retorted icily. "You make a distinction between government subsidies to your mine, but you want the government of the United States to deny those subsidies to your competitors in the United States. This raises the question of what kind of advice you are going to give Mr. Wilson on expanding our national production."

"Did you get ECA help to open those (South African) mines?" broke in Sen. Clinton Anderson, New Mexico Democrat.

"Yes," admitted Searls.

"And when those were opened, several smaller mines in this country were forced to close, throwing many workers out of jobs," snapped Anderson.

He recalled that American miners had testified in May, 1950, that they had been forced to shut down their mines, stopping production and throwing 2,000 men out of work.

"You feel you are in a position to give Mr. Wilson impartial advice?" demanded Anderson. "If you can persuade him not to give help to open and expand mines in the United States, then we must look to sources outside of the United States for raw materials."

"Mines come, die off, and mines go. The best way to help mines here is to leave them alone," suggested Searls.

"I'm trying to find out if your interests in foreign mines are so great that you'll be prejudiced in your advice to Mr. Wilson," the New Mexico Senator persisted. "Our miners feel your opposition (to expanding domestic production) was based on your foreign interests."

Patriotic Speech

"I feel the urgency of the war program requires us to get all the metals into this country as fast as possible. Where they come from is of secondary importance," Searls replied in a patriotic little speech.

But under questioning, he admitted sheepishly that his own South African mines sold most of their production to Europe.

"Where do you ship copper" asked Sen. Herbert Lehman, New York Democrat.

"Belgium, France, Italy and England," reported Searls.

"Then the United States doesn't receive any benefits of the ECA help your company has received," observed Lehman.

"That's correct," confessed the man who advises Wilson on minerals.

"I've been very concerned about scarcity of copper in this country. Because there is that scarcity, why do you continue to deliver your copper to foreign countries?" demanded the New York Senator.

"The market abroad is higher than in the United States," explained Searls, not sounding quite so patriotic.

The most angry outburst came from Sen. Guy Cordon, Oregon Republican, when Searls argued that it wasn't "mandatory" under the Defense Production Act to pay mining subsidies.

"That's why you're here today," Cordon bristled. "Were it not for that, it wouldn't make a damned bit of difference how you advised Mr. Wilson."

Searls also admitted that his company had urged reducing the appropriations for stockpiling because of the need for "economizing." He indicated that he considered the stockpiling program just another form of subsidy for the domestic mines.

At the end of the hearing, O'Mahoney asked the final question: "Yesterday, the National Production Authority appeared before us and proposed a $10,000,000 expansion and exploration program for our domestic mining. What is your view in regard to that?" he asked.

"I would prefer that it not be done," replied Searls. "But I doubt if I would be consulted on it."

"I should hope you wouldn't!" snorted O'Mahoney.

The Investigations

THE Fulbright Committee's term ends on April 30. By no possibility can its work be completed by that date. As a matter of fact, this committee has done so well in uncovering the evil practices in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that it ought to be continued until that cesspool is cleaned out.

We are now informed that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been given a monopoly for the purchase of tin for the entire United States. After what has already been disclosed concerning the RFC, it would not seem that this organization can safely be entrusted with such a responsibility.

This committee could be allowed to die, and although a few individuals would suffer a scant pillory, the pattern of corruption would not have been completed. As a matter of fact, every doubtful loan should be examined and exposed before the Fullbright committee expires.

The ultimate of the Fulbright Committee's investigation would be the closing down of most of the governmental lending agencies. They were created to meet emergencies; they have been perpetuated beyond the needs of the country and therefore they have become corrupted.

It would probably serve the country well if the Fullbright Committee would seek the judgment of Jesse Jones in the course of its investigations. It would undoubtedly discover from his experience that when a government agency outlives its usefulness it ought to be permitted to die. Jesse Jones has advocated the abolition of the RFC.

The Fulbright Committee might also consult the investigators of the Hoover Commission who studied the lending agencies of the government and were not favorably impressed by the arguments for their continued existence.

It needs to be recognized now that the work of this committee has only started; to permit its investigations to die on April 30 would give the crooks not yet exposed safety to pursue their raids on the taxpayers' money. Pressure should be put on Congress to keep the Fulbright Committee alive.

I watched the Kefauver Committee on television for several hours. It was a wonderful experience. I do not blame any crook if he refuses to appear before the committee with television as a witness. The devil is exposed by appearance, word, gesture.

Joe Adonis, for instance, looked and acted like a movie gangster. He was an imitation George Raft. He was brazen. He was contemptuous. When he said that he would answer the questions asked when he had his day in court, he was only maintaining an American tradition which could have won sympathy. However, the way he said it, the way he looked, the cheapness of the tough guy, made it sound as though he meant that he would only answer the questions if he came into a court where he owned the judge body and soul.

Maybe the mob ought to hire a

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman is right when he says it takes 25 to 30 years after a presidential term to evaluate an administration. But that doesn't mean the contemporary verdict will necessarily be altered by the passage of time.

Likewise, the popular impression of a quarter of a century hence will depend on how the history books tell the story. If, as they did in the case of President Grant, they refer primarily to his prowess as a general and ignore the weaknesses he subsequently displayed in office and the charges of scandal that arose, then it doesn't much matter what the sins were—only the virtues are emphasized.

But what do people remember or forget about presidents anyway?

They remember, for instance, that Jackson was the brilliant hero of the Battle of New Orleans in 1813 and that he was an independent, fiery character, but they remember, too, as far from worthy, his doctrine "to the victor (in politics) belong the spoils."

Progenitor Of UN

They remember Lincoln as the man who freed the slaves and saved the union. They forget that he personally paid the expenses of a delegate to go to the National Republican Convention to vote for him—if indeed, they knew it at the time.

They remember Woodrow Wilson not as the president who led the world to victory in World War I, but as the man who broke down in health pleading for a League of Nations supported by and participated in by the United States so as to make the world "safe for democracy"—safe against threats from tyrannical rulers and totalitarian governments. If the United Nations succeeds, Wilson will be remembered as its progenitor.

Mr. Truman mentioned Grover Cleveland as among those presidents who are just now coming into their own. What do the people remember about Cleveland? What do the history books say? They quote more often than anything else his immortal phrase—"public office is a public trust." Despite the fact that Grover Cleveland came to the presidency through political machines—just as did Mr. Truman to the Senate through the Pendergast machine and later to the vice presidency through the other big city Democratic machines—there was no question where Cleveland stood when the issue came up as between political henchmen and the public interest. Mr. Truman may well ponder the phrase that made Cleveland famous and look around him and ask himself if the revelations about his friends and cronies do honor to him as long as he puts personal loyalties above the public interest.

There's another president—Calvin Coolidge—who will be remembered for what he did when the Teapot Dome scandal revealed that during the Republican administration of the man he succeeded—Warren Harding—cabinet officers had become implicated. Mr. Coolidge didn't hesitate a moment. He didn't care about the reflection which his action would cast on a Republican administration just a year before he himself would be up for another term. Mr. Coolidge selected the best two prosecutors he could find in the country—Owen Roberts, a republican, who later became a Supreme Court justice, and Atlee Pomerene, a Democrat and former U. S. Senator from Ohio. He told them to go to it and prosecute and let the chips fall where they may. To him public office was a public trust and not a personal or political trust. And the people elected Calvin Coolidge in 1924 even though the Republican party was tainted with one of the worst scandals in our history.

Truman Has Opportunity

The petty things do wash out. The mink coats and the deep freezers are forgotten in the long run—provided the man in the White House turns out to be not a Warren Harding who, too, was the victim of a misplaced confidence in political cronies, but a president who makes his administration measure up to his own standard of integrity. And nobody can justly say that Harry Truman is devoid of personal integrity. They may say he did a great thing in preventing World War III—if 25 years from now that proves to have been the true measure of our intervention in Korea. But they may also say some day that he repudiated the doctrine—"public office is a public trust."

All the other presidents have submitted their cases to history. They can neither add to nor subtract from them now. But President Truman still has an opportunity by a courageous, impersonal attitude—expressed in deeds, not words—to write the history of his own administration.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON

SENATOR Paul Douglas of Illinois is now one of the half dozen key political figures in this country. As the recent United Press poll of Democratic leaders showed, Douglas is now far and away the first choice of the professional Democrats for the Presidential nomination, if President Truman does not choose to run. It is interesting, and it may be significant, that Douglas himself appears to regard this situation with genuine dismay.

The importance of Douglas as a political figure depends directly, of course, on Truman's real intentions. No one, probably not even Truman, really knows whether he will hand on the poisoned Presidential chalice. But those who know Truman believe that there is a better than even chance that in the end he will decide not to run.

The reasons they give sound logical enough—his age, family pressures, the third term amendment, the fact that Truman suffers from no delusions of personal indispensability, above all the fact that Truman now heartily dislikes the office which he was so visibly enjoying only a year ago. Truman intimates also agree that the President's own choice for a successor is likely to be Chief Justice Fred Vinson.

Vinson is popular with his party, but it is a difficult step from Chief Justice to Presidential candidate. Moreover, although Truman can certainly have the nomination for himself, it is by no means certain that he can dictate the nomination of another. Above all, the professionals are apparently convinced that Douglas is the best Democratic bet to win—and winning is what matters to the professionals.

Startling Success

Douglas does not look like a man who would endear himself to professional politicians. He has a long sallow face, an abstracted manner, and an odd habit of keeping a cigaret dangling from one side of his mouth. His clothes look as though they had been slept in, which they often have—Douglas tires easily from war wounds, and often naps in the daytime. Altogether, Douglas gives more the impression of an intelligent, perhaps mildly eccentric economics professor—which he is—rather than a startlingly successful politician, —which he also is.

For it is startling that after a short two years as a freshman Senator Douglas should be a perfectly serious Presidential possibility. Partly his success derives from plain intelligence and drive. He has established himself as a major foreign policy spokesman, for example, without a seat on the Foreign Relations Committee. Another important political asset is that he is so obviously untainted by the cronyism and influence-peddling which is eating into the Administration and the Democratic party. But his success also partly derives from his ability to be all things to all men.

He is a member in good standing of the New Deal wing of the party, which has lost ground, but which still exercises a veto power over Presidential nominations. Yet the conservatives like him for his stand on spending, and the Southerners do not dislike him because he has never taken an extreme position on civil rights.

Says He Is Unqualified

Cynics interpret this as agile political acrobatics, performed throughout with one eye on the White House. Yet Douglas reacts to suggestions that he might be nominated with what appears to be perfectly genuine distaste. He has repeatedly told friends that he is simply not qualified for the Presidency. He has even talked about deflating any serious Douglas boom with a statement patterned on General Sherman's famous refusal to run.

The cynical might consider even this sort of thing as standard operating procedure for ambitious candidates. But what is certainly unusual is Douglas's unqualified enthusiasm for the nomination of a potential rival. For Douglas is about the most outspoken of those Democrats who are beginning rather wistfully to talk about nominating General Dwight D. Eisenhower in case Truman withdraws. Douglas has even remarked that it might be a good idea to nominate Eisenhower on both tickets, as a demonstration of unity in the face of danger.

THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS

Behold, I lay in Sion a stumblingstone and rock of offence: and whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed. Romans 9:33 (K. J. V.) Read Luke 20:17-26.

How could they put him to death? Paul, looking on from a distance, could come to no other conclusion than that Jesus had been "a stumblingstone and a rock of offense." Strangely enough, a bad world will always lay the charge of evil at a good man's door.

So it was with Jesus. He offended them at the point of their patriotism. Jesus was a patriot, but his was not the patriotism of his contemporaries. Theirs was born of contempt for others, of resentment, of pride, of prejudice. His was born of love for his neighbor, and his neighbor was both friend and enemy.

Again, he would not conform to their religious practices. The prevailing religion was traditional. Jesus could have nothing to do with a religion that left out truth, honesty, reasonableness, and faith.

Then too, he refused to fight his battle and win his cause after the manner prescribed by the people. He showed them how pitiful and insecure were the foundations upon which they were building a religious and national life. Do we act as did his crucifiers?

Let Us Pray: Help us, our Father, to see the thing for which Jesus was struggling and give us hearts to believe in him even though it leads to a cross. Amen.

College Easter Assembly Gives Loyalty Stress

Two Students Speak At Frostburg School

FROSTBURG — Miss Patricia Benna and Charles Sitter, students at Frostburg State Teachers College, spoke on "Loyalty" yesterday at the annual Easter Assembly, held in the college auditorium and sponsored by the Students Christian Association of the college.

Miss Benna stressed the idea that everyone strives for some ultimate goal in idealogy which will provide a guide for living. She mentioned the necessity for such loyalty in the present age of insecurity. She also presented the view that loyalty may be slavery or freedom and closed her remarks with the query "is there a final, ultimate, one loyalty?"

Sitter emphasized loyalty as an intangible thing, but something which gives a feeling of security to the one who possesses it. He stressed the fact that many varied levels of loyalty exist and that some of them are good while others may be selfish, according to each individual's values.

Dawn Fabor presided at the assembly and Maxine Conrad was the pianist. Others taking part were Doris Harvey, Betty Hanna and Carolyn Hull.

Walters Heads Wildlife Group

FROSTBURG — The Western Maryland Wildlife Federation honored George Walters of Eckhart by electing him president of the Federation for his fourth term.

Others named to serve with him are Jack Poisal, Haystack Mountain Sportsmen's Club, vice-president; Lawrence Fiorita, Barrellville Outdoor Club, secretary, and Jerome Wilson, Allegany-Garrett County Sportsmen's Association, Frostburg, treasurer.

The Federation has changed its meeting date from monthly to quarterly. All meetings will be held at the club house of the Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Association. The April meeting will be featured with an address by Harry Barton, a member of the State Game and Fish Commission. All clubs are asked to send delegates to this meeting.

The Federation sent a night letter to Delegate Charles See of the House of Delegates, opposing House Bill 588 to exempt Allegany county from the car search law.

Sunrise Service Due At Coney

LONACONING—Young people of four Protestant Churches will hold a sunrise service Easter Sunday, at 6:30 a. m. in the First Presbyterian church, Lonaconing.

"As It Began to Dawn" will be a pageant on the Easter program.

The combined choirs of the four churches will sing during the service. The Community Choir will sing an anthem.

Benediction will be giver by the Rev. C. H. Goshorn, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. The young people of the Methodist, Presbyterian, First Pentecostal and the Pentecostal Holiness churches will participate.

Keyser Women Hear About North Africa

KEYSER, W. Va. — Women in North Africa are mere chattel with no real family life, Rev. Robert L. Bridgers, pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, said while speaking at the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist Church.

Mrs. M. R. Herndon, leader of the March Division, introduced the speaker. Rev. Bridgers said that the culture and religion is Arabic and Islam or Mohammedan. He asserted that polygamy is dying out because of the Christian influence. With the exception of Turkey and Egypt, the women are illiterate, but in these two countries women are being emancipated.

I have only taken three bottles and this is my fourth bottle. I think it is a wonderful medicine to relieve such symptoms. It sure has done wonders for me in this way.

"My mother recommended it for me. She took it when she was going through the change 20 years ago. Thank you for such a wonderful medicine."

Wins Jacksonville Open, Earns $2,000

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Jim Ferrier, one of the biggest men on the golf tour, today won his third straight on the PGA circuit when he copped the $10,000 Jacksonville Open title by the amazing margin of 11 strokes.

Mangrum made a terrific comeback after an opening-round 77 over the 6,508-yard course, his final 18 was even par 72. Shields, who matched Ferrier's first two rounds of 68, polished off his total with 73.

JIM FERRIER

"I thought par was 68 and I kept shooting at it," Ferrier joked. He had a broad smile, naturally, for his third $2,000 prize in three weeks. He also won the St. Petersburg and Miami Beach opens.

Lew Worsham, former National Open Champion from Oakmont, Pa., and first round leader here, got a share of fourth-place money with Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C. Palmer shot 67 in the closing round and Worsham 71 for 285 each.

Five of the touring pros finished at 286. Among them was Art Wall, Jr., Bronxville, N. Y., hole in one specialist, who started the final round in second place but slipped to 77. The others at 286 were Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass.; Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., Jackson Bradley of Chicago, and Dave Douglas of Newark, Del.

Western Md. Bowlers Trail By 27 Maples

The B. & O. toppled 1,855 pins to the opposition's 1,660 in the final game after losing the first two, 1,800 to 1,715 and 1,789 to 1,706. The three-game team totals were: B. & O. 5,276; Western Maryland 5,249.

Walter Cox paced the B. & O. with high single game of 206 and high set of 539. Raupach posted a 506 and Ziler had a 469. Spier led Western Maryland with high set of 491 while Wisegarver had high single game of 194. Lafferty was runner-up with 485 and Fisher was third with 479.

The B. & O. League has been in operation seven years and Western Maryland 10 years but this marks the first inter-league series.

The last three games of the series will be staged tonight at 9 o'clock on the Club Recreation alleys.

Honus Is Grandpop

PITTSBURGH, March 19 (AP)—Old Honus Wagner, baseball's great shortstop of yesteryear, bubbled over with joy today as he telephoned the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

"I'm a grandpop," he chortled. "How'd you like that?

Freshmen Are Eligible

Stiteler Says He Told Untruth About Beating

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., March 19 (AP) — Harry Stiteler admitted today he hadn't told the truth about a beating he got in Houston. His offer to resign as Texas A. & M. football coach was immediately accepted.

"I'll be looking for something else," he said early tonight.

The small, silver-haired coach was beaten on Dec. 15, 1950, shortly after arriving in Houston. He was on his way to attend a banquet honoring his team — the most successful A. & M. eleven in almost a decade.

Stiteler said after the incident was publicized that he did not know the man who attacked him and that it was a case of mistaken identity.

Today he admitted in a statement to the Associated Press that this was not true; that he knew his assailant, and that the attack resulted from personal differences. He still refused to name his attacker.

Graziano Stops Jones In Third

MIAMI, Fla., March 19 (AP) — Former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano, battling for a new shot at the title, battered Reuben Jones to the canvas in 1:18 of the third round in a savage slugging match at Miami Stadium tonight.

A straight right to the jaw knocked the tough Norfolk, Va., fighter on his back after a sharp exchange of blows along the ropes. Jones came up with the nine count but fell forward on his face.

The 29-year-old Graziano, who lost the middleweight championship to Tony Zale in 1948, is gunning for a shot at middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson. Robinson, who is scheduled to fight Holly Mims of Baltimore here April 5, did not attend tonight's fight.

Seven schools were in the conference last season and it is understood Barton High School will apply for a berth at today's session.

Beall High School won the 1950 championship. The other schools in the circuit were Hyndman (Pa.), Bruce (Westernport), Central (Lonaconing), LaSalle, Allegany and Fort Hill, of Cumberland.

Eight Cage Teams Vie In Keyser Next Week

Carver High School's boys and girls will compete in the Tri-State Athletic Union's basketball tournament at Potomac State School's gym in Keyser on March 30 and 31, Earle L. Bracey, principal of the Frederick Street school, announced last night.

In the second game boys' teams of North Street, Hagerstown, and Douglas, Leesburg (Va.) will clash. The third game brings together the Carver (Cumberland) and Howard (Piedmont) boys while in the 4th tilt, the Leesburg and Hagerstown girls will do battle. Finals are scheduled for Saturday March 31.

Lions Play Big Ten Champs In NCAA Contest At Garden

NC State, Villanova, Kentucky, Louisville Tangle At Raleigh

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The country's No. 1 college basketball team and the only one not to suffer a defeat this season will share co-featured roles tomorrow night in the opening round of the NCAA eastern eliminations.

Kentucky's mighty Wildcats, top-ranked in the Associated Press' final poll, will open their national title bid at Raleigh, N. C., meeting a strong independent state rival, Louisville.

Columbia's Lions, winners of 22 straight games this season and 31 over a two-year span, will risk their perfect record at New York's Madison Square Garden against Illinois, formidable champion of the Big Ten.

These two games will headline opening skirmishes in a tournament that before the end of the week will see a 16 team field—including all the basketball elite and champions of ten major conferences—reduced to two finalists. The title game will be played at Minneapolis March 27.

The western NCAA eliminations, with eight teams involved, will open in Kansas City Wednesday night with Oklahoma A. and M., the No. 2 nationally ranked Missouri Valley Champions, and Kansas State's Big Seven titlists as favorites.

At Raleigh, N. C.—7:45 p. m (EST), North Carolina State (28-5) vs. Villanova (24-5); 9:30 p. m. Kentucky (28-2); vs Louisville (19-6).

At New York—7:45 p. m., St. John's (24-4) vs. Connecticut (22-3); 9:30 p. m., Columbia (22-0) vs Illinois (19-4).

Kentucky, a seasoned quintet built around seven-foot Bill Spivey, is favorite to take away NCAA honors both here and in Minneapolis. The Wildcats have lost two of 30 games—a 43-42 overtime decision to St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl and a 61-57 verdict to Vanderbilt in the finals of the Southeastern Conference tournament.

The Wildcats' path in the eastern eliminations was made softer by a four-year eligibility rule which deprived North Carolina State, the Southern Conference champion, of its three big stars—All America Sam Ranzino, Paul Horvath and Vic Bubas.

Columbia also got some bad news on the eve of the tournament opening. Bob Sullivan, a senior guard and sixth man on the squad, was declared ineligible because of scholastic difficulties. An excellent back court man, he had played in 22 games and scored 70 points.

Columbia's showing in the tough NCAA field will be watched with interest since the Lions, having played largely in Ivy League schedule, are an unknown quantity. It's still a question whether they're just good or great.

Lou Rossini, the young man who handles the Lions' hardwood fortunes, figures Illinois will offer a severe enough test.

St. John's Redmen looked weary and flat in the National Invitation Tournament, in which they came out third best, and may have trouble with Connecticut, a sharp little club with a 22-3 record.

Brigham Young, a smart, cool outfit with two excellent men in Roland Minson and Mel Hutchins, won the Invitation and should be a big threat in the Western NCAA.

The Utah team, trying for a grand slam, will play San Jose State in one of the opening games at Kansas City Wednesday night. Kansas State and Arizona, the Border champion, tangle in the other game, opening the program at 9 p. m. (EST).

In the other quarter-finals Thursday, Oklahoma A. and M. will play Montana State and Texas A. and M. will meet Washington.

Barton To Honor State Champs At Dinner Tonight

Speakers will include J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, Alfred H. Benna, Barton High principal, and Miss Emma Schramm, student council president.

Ted Williams Is In Middle Again

SARSOTA, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Ted Williams is in the middle again.

The Boston Red Sox outfielder who does what comes naturally nearly 100 per cent of the time—whether it's an exhibition of his sometimes mercurial temper or one of his many anonymous kindly acts—is involved with the fans once more.

Booed Sunday after failing to run out a grounder to the pitcher Williams spat in the direction of the stands.

He expectorated again as he crossed the plate after hitting a home run.

Whether the salivary explosions were derisive gestures, as most seem to think, or just another nervous reaction by a ballplayer is known only by the controversial slugger himself.

Williams himself said:

"I did not spit at the fans. I had something in my mouth and I just got rid of it on the ground.

"I don't care whether they (fans) like me or not. What were they booing about anyway? There's no reason to boo me."

His gestures were made soon after he had sounded off resentfully about playing springtime exhibitions.

This feeling is shared by many, many ballplayers but only a few, such as Williams, have the brass to come out and say so for the record.

PITCHING CAN MAKE NEW YORK GIANTS CLUB TO BE RECKONED WITH IN 1951

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the seventh of a series of articles on the 1951 prospects of the major league baseball teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—With a pitching staff that developed as it went along last year, the New York Giants staged a furious surge in the last half of the season and won 50 of their last 72 games to finish third, five behind the champion Phillies.

Was it a one-year surge? Manager Leo (The Lip) Durocher thinks not.

While he says you have to concede that Brooklyn has the best team in the league, the Lip thinks his Giants are going to be better than last year.

"Our overall pitching is better," he says in between pepper games and fun-making at the old Yankee training grounds here.

"We've added a good relief pitcher in Allen Gettel, another catcher and a terrific infielder, Artie Wilson, who is going to help us. Besides, we've got a good double-play combination in Eddie Stanky and Al Dark and if you have a good double-play combine your pitchers have more confidence."

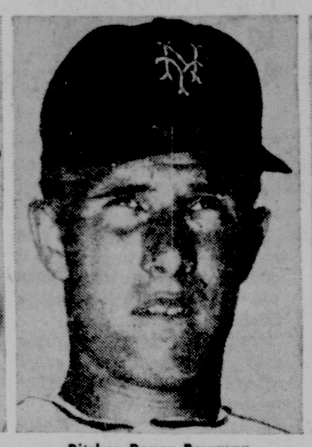

The Lip continued: "I've never seen a club in such good shape. They're working harder than ever before and getting some fun out of it, too. Our boys look good and feel good. We have no pitchers with tight or sore arms. What I like about it all this year is that nobody is sitting down in the dugout—they're out there working all the time."

The Giants' acceleration at the end of the campaign previously drew this comment from Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies: "Sure they came on, but only after they were out of the race. They had no pressure on them then."

The colorful manager of the Giants refused at first to offer a rebuttal to that, saying, "Well, the Phils won the pennant, didn't they, and we didn't."

NEW YORK GIANTS

Finish in '50: Third
Last pennant 1937
Leading pitcher: Sal Maglie (18-4)
Leading hitter: Ed Stanky (.300)
(Averages are for 1950)

Later, however, he did say: "We didn't have any pressure on us, et? Well, he wishes he didn't have any pressure when they played us. We only beat them nine out of the last 10 games we played 'em."

* * *

HOWEVER, back to the pitching: Statistically, the Giants had the second most effective hurling staff in the league. Two flingers, Sal Maglie, once in the Mexican league, and Jim Hearn, discarded by the Cardinals, turned in their best years

The Lip believes they can repeat and is mighty enthusiatic about the No. 5 twirler, Dave Koslo, a lefty, who won 13 and lost 15.

"Koslo has looked better this year than I've ever seen him since he was in the minors," says the Lip. "He's no. 5 right now, but he could break into that starting combination at any time.

The Giants' boss named Larry Jansen (19-13), Jim Hearn (11-4), Sal Maglie (18-4) and Sheldon Jones (13-16) as his starters. Gettel, ex-major leaguer who won 23 and lost seven for Oakland, will be the reliefer.

"And I'm going to work these guys in practice games, too," reminded the Lip.

"I want them ready. Every one will have pitched nine innings or more when the season starts. I like to rotate only four pitchers during the season but my four are really going to be ready."

Leo listed Roger Bowman (16-11 with Jersey City), Charlie Bishop (16-9 with Sioux City), Norman Fox (10-5 with Jersey City), George Bamberger (17-13 with Oakland), George Spencer (11-5 with Jersey City) and Frank Fanovich (8-5 with Minneopolis) as good looking rookie flingers, all of whom have a chance to stick.

Monte Kennedy, who had a 5-4 mark with the Giants last year, is being given intensive coaching. And Kennedy, the Lip informs, is now getting the ball over the plate because he has gained that confidence.

* * *

THE GIANTS could use some more power for they were only fifth in the league in home runs last year and seventh in batting.

Wes Westrum, the No. 1 catcher, can hit them far although his bat mark last year was .236. He did sock 23 home runs, though.

A husky Cuban Negro, Rafael Noble (No-blay), has impressed in camp. This guy played in 110 games for Oakland last year and batted .316. The third catcher is Sal Yvars, up from Jersey City.

Leo has some fine rookie infielders but has a problem at first base where his one and only guardian is Monte Irvin, who came up from Jersey City early last year and proceeded to bat .300 for the Giants.

The Giants' head man is giving Whitey Lockman, regular left fielder, work at first base to have some protection in case Irvin gets hurt. Lockman can play the bag.

Too, the pepper-pot second base combination, Eddie Stanky at second and Al Dark at short, is back and looking good. Henry Thompson, who played such spectacular ball for the Giants last year, is the third sacker. Thompson belted 20 homers and drove in 91 runs.

* * *

ARTIE WILSON, the hot-shot shortstop who was involved in that Cleveland-Yankee dispute over ownership, is now up with the Giants and at the moment is Leo's pride and joy.

Wilson, in the Pacific Coast league the last two seasons, had another great year last summer He played in 196 games, got 264 hits and stole 31 bases. His batting mark was .312. In his first year in organized ball, 1949, Artie led the Coast league in batting with a .348 mark. He comes up from Oakland.

Three second basemen, any one of which most other clubs would want, are on the roster, too. The three are Bob Hofman, up from Oakland where he hit .296 and compiled a huge double-play record; Pete Pavlick, up from Jersey City where he was the league's All-Star player in 1949, and Dave Williams, who hit 17 home runs and batted .280 with Minneapolis. Hofman will be kept, it is believed.

* * *

THE OUTFIELDERS are Lockman, a .295 hitter last year; Bobby Thomson, the power boy who smacked 25 homers, and Don Mueller, who batted .291. For help there is Roy Weatherly and Jack MaGuire, utility.

Clint Hartung, the Hondo, Tex., "hurricane" who has been tried as a pitcher the last few years, will be used only as a pinch-hitter and outfielder this year.

Leo is high on him and says the guy has amazing strength and will murder the ball.

* * *

WELL, that's the Giants. A club certianly to be reckoned with if it gets that same kind of pitching.

New Sunoco Dynalube Motor Oil

Combines in a Single Oil All the Finest Features of America's Premium Motor Oils . . . Actually Improves Condition of Most Engines

WHATEVER CAR YOU DRIVE . . . newest 1951 or earlier model . . . now you can give it greater engine protection with NEW Sunoco Dynalube. This heavy-duty premium motor oil not only combines in one oil all the finest features of America's premium motor oils . . . it actually improves the condition of most engines.

If your car's engine is fouled by inferior motor oils and is not delivering the top performance it was built to give, change today to motor-conditioning NEW Sunoco Dynalube.

Check for yourself! See if your present motor oil gives all these great features, listed right on every can of NEW Sunoco Dynalube:

1. Tough HEAT-RESISTANT BODY assures you long motor oil mileage.

2. Fully DETERGENT-DISPERSANT—NEW Sunoco Dynalube cleans engines and keeps them clean. Road dust and contamination from normal combustion are held in harmless suspension until oil is drained at the regular interval.

3. FREE-FLOWING and METAL-CLINGING qualities of NEW Sunoco Dynalube help you avoid costly engine repairs.

4. ANTI-RUST and ANTI-ACID—NEW Dynalube counteracts two greatest causes of wear in any engine.

5. High FILM STRENGTH and RING-SEALING ACTION—insure longer-lasting engine efficiency.

* * *

NEW Sunoco Dynalube is one of the very few oils that meets or exceeds manufacturers' recommendations for all 1951 passenger cars.

IN AAA-SUPERVISED 4,650-mile road test from Quebec to Key West and back, four popular-make cars using NEW Sunoco Dynalube were driven over 2,000 miles, on the average, before a drop of oil had to be added.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (INS)—The Goldwyn girls are coming back — not the originals, bub—but a whole new crop for "The Great American Pastime"—a story built around softball.

Sam Goldwyn just bought the original idea from Norman Foster and Robert Keith with plans to make it late this year. According to Sam (whom I doubt ever saw a softball game) the sport draws over one hundred million spectators a season.

The Goldwyn girls, as you may be suspecting, will be scampering around as a girls' softball squad—but the star role goes to a top comic who plays the manager.

Cary Grant collects $290,000 for "Dr. Praetorius" at 20th—and the same amount for his next two pictures, a total of $870,000!

Columnists used to be begged not to tell about Hollywood salaries because for some mysterious reason it made the public "mad."

Considering that Cary can keep only a few thousand dollars of this staggering sum for himself, after Uncle Sam takes his cut, I don't see who can be angry.

The second picture lined up for Cary is the Ladislaus Bus-Fekete and Mary Helen Fays script of "Sweet Sister" for Fred Kohlmar.

But if you know the original story, a quite censorable theme, I can promise you won't be shocked by the way it has been rewritten. It's practical a new story.

Irving Berlin stopped by to see his favorite doctor, and I asked him if he had any movie plans. He was evasive about that and said there was nothing to tell yet. But he did say that he had given Russell Nype, the sensation in "Call Me Madame," a new contract.

"We signed young Nype originally," Irving said, "at $175 a week. Then we raised it and gave him a bonus. He was eager to make a picture so we gave him a new contract, which gives him time off to come to Hollywood in June. For that he agrees to remain with 'Call Me Madame' for a year."

I asked Irving what he thought about all this talk that Nype was the Duchess of Windsor's protege. Irving said, "Personally, I don't think Russell needs any of that kind of publicity. He has talent and that's what really counts."

Jane Greer, who has been fighting appendicitis for some time, plans to take time off as soon as she finishes "Friendly Island" to have her appendix removed.

Her physician, Dr. John Sharp has been treating her with ice packs. He tells her this is only temporary and it's absolutely imperative that she have her appendix removed.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Peggy Lee, according to a telegram from New York, was a sensation when she opened at the Copacabana. Well, that's what we'd expect of Peggy . . . She's a gal who's got personality and a voice.

Anita Stewart with Art Goebel famous test pilot, at Charley Foy's.

Abigail Adams, all in white, with George Jessel at Mocambo. When George was told she looked like a bride, he said, "I wouldn't know about such things, I'm just the little boy who picks up the check." I love that!

The two happiest prospective parents in our town, Anne Baxter and John Hodiak, were at the cocktail party Cobina Wright, Gene Tierney and the Charlie Morrisons gave honoring Igor Cassini (Cholly Knickerbocker).

The party was a gala affair and went on long after the 9 o'clock on the invitation. But Cobina's parties are always fun.

Danny Thomas has just notified the City of Hope Cancer Hospital that he is turning over his week's salary at the Flamingo on April 5. This should amount to $10,000 and will really give the fund a boost.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

movie man to teach them how to act in front of television, for no doubt this instrument exposes them like an X-ray. It is different from radio because it provides a complete personality. I watched Adonis consult his lawyer on television and I am sure that he made a very bad impression on me.

The Kefauver Committee seems to be going through with its job with a welcome degree of thoroughness. We are getting an insight into the character and personalities of our new masters, who have been seizing the political machinery of the country first on the municipal level. In some places, they have already moved to the state level. How long could it be before they used the huge funds made out of dope, policy and prostitution to corrupt the machinery of both parties on the national level? There is the menace of this gang.

This makes the Kefauver Committee's work of the utmost importance. It, too, should not be permitted to end its work. It ought to be continued until it has smashed the Mafia and sent its leaders to prison. The United States does not need a Mafia any more than it needs Communists.

This country does not need any organization of private persons who exercise control, in private and secrecy, over other citizens and even over the government of municipalities, states and the federal administration. All secret agencies are evil in a free society. They are an importation of deleterious European habits and activities.

For your grace in movement, and your safety as well, follow today's suggestions on how to improve balance!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HOW lucky for all the women with poor equilibrium that a beautiful walk is achieved on two, close parallel lines instead of one! Walking a chalk line would require prefect balance.

But did you know that you can improve your equilibrium? Yes, and gain not only in your safety but in poise and looks at the same time! As with anything else, you can school yourself to acquire balance. If you are prone to trip on curbs or stairs, or frequently have to steady yourself when you rise suddenly from a chair, today's column is especially for you.

Thinking Each Step

Poor balance in most instances is just pure carelessness. Begin to improve yours by giving more thought to all your movements. Consciously judge distances and surfaces with a more careful eye. When you've got the mental perspective of your next action, transmit this information explicitly to your feet; make them obey your commands. Practice on step ladders, flagstones, unevenly spaced steps and slippery floors. You'll be surprised at how quickly your equilibrium will improve with concentration.

Absolute balance may become second nature to you if you also strive for greater muscular control and coordination. Both of these beauty assets are apt to deteriorate with maturity and accompanying decreased physical activity. But they can be recaptured. One of the best ways to accomplish this is with the following exercise:

Recapturing Coordination

Stand with your feet, together and your hands on your hips. Slowly squat so that your knees are wide apart. While in this position, extend your right leg forward with the foot held above the floor. Try to hold this position for a few seconds. Then, bring your foot back to its original position and rise to standing position. Rest. Repeat the squat and extend the left leg forward.

Watch your body line as you lower yourself. Keep the hips under, the abdomen in, and the back straight. This is a real tough one but worth ten years off your birthdays!

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

IF TELEVISION achieved nothing else in its lifetime up till now it has cured a lot of Americans of their illusions about the "glamor" of gangdom.

If I were a George Raft, Humphrey Bogart, Eddie Robinson or Jack Larue I'd ask my movie studio to look around for some different roles for me. Because what the people have seen on their TV screens during the New York hearings of the Kefauver committee has made countless customers recoil in horror and disgust from what they once considered a picturesque modern prototype of Robin Hood.

This is not to state unequivocally that every witness called by the committee is or was a thug. But enough perfumed scum came to and departed from the chair to give a great many illusioned crime-story enthusiasts a more sober outlook on crime and its practitioners.

The face of evil haunted the living rooms along the co-axial cables, bringing home dramatically this oft-repeated and written truism: That the influence of vicious and pitiless men has spread like a cancerous growth through the healthy morality of a great nation.

We have heard a man testify that he, as a political leader, felt it was "necessary" to get Frank Costello's nod of approval before the nomination of a Democratic candidate for mayor of New York City. In effect he was saying that Costello, jailed once for gun-toting and a confessed bootlegger and gambler on a large scale, was more important than a vast array of decent, law-abiding voters exercising the priceless right and privilege of the secret ballot.

We have heard a hitherto honored and respected superintendent of the New York state police shamefacedly admit that it was against "policy" to enforce the state's anti-gambling law, when the target-to-be was any plushy Saratoga Springs dice and roulette house.

We have heard a Saratoga detective acknowledge that he used a police car to convoy money between a Saratoga bank and the city's open gambling houses—the insinuation being that if any taxpaying citizen objected to this misuse of a public vehicle and corruption of a police official, the citizen would be run down, figuratively or literally. And if the cop had a change of heart, he'd be fired.

We have heard a man who has been on the public payroll for better than a decade, in well-paid jobs, insist he was familiar with the likes of Joe Adonis, the vicious Louis Weber, and Al Anastasia, a man who might have been electrocuted for his role in Murder, Inc., if the two witnesses whose testimony would have sent him to the chair had not met with violent ends.

We have heard again that there is a pretty good chance New York police killed one of those witnesses, Abe Reles, while "protecting" him in a Coney Island hotel, and that the murder, if it was, was done for the accommodation of Anastasia.

We have heard witnesses arrogantly rebuke, berate and defy the efforts of the Senate committee to pry the lid from the vile tieups between public officials who swore to uphold the Constitution of the United States but who were, in some cases, little more than employes of murderers, white slavers, and narcotic runners.

We have heard the ornate mistress of one of the most merciless mobsters in our history, Benny Siegel, speak blithely of squandering sums of money which many hard-working, clean-living American families could not amass in a lifetime of honest effort.

We have heard of hoodlums tossing Uncle Sam whatever they saw fit to toss him, at income tax time, and getting away with it—while Joe Blow, the plumber, is given a third degree for failing to produce a cancelled check to confirm his reported $10 contribution to the Red Cross.

And, above all, we have learned that gambling is not the good-natured avocation of the person who places an occasional two-buck off-course bet or takes part in his church's bingo night.

We have learned that gambling is so enormous and its control so tightly held that to protect their rich empire the hoods in charge have polluted officials ranging all the way from the flat-foot on the corner to governors in their aloof mansions.

TV has helped to make graphic the whole revolting mess, and I, for one, am herewith willing to forgive it for its 1918 westerns.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many kindnesses shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved brother, Harvey Brown. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars, also Post No. 13 American Legion and Rev. Donald Brake.

The Brown Family.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our darling baby girl, Paula Rose Greening, who passed away 1 year ago, March 19, 1950.

Out in the garden of life there grew,
A flower so lovely and fair,
A blossom so tiny and precious and sweet,
That the Master who planted it there
Gathered it lovingly into His arms,
And now in the light of His love,
Sheltered and blessed by His Presence it grows,
MOTHER and DADDY

That a man as intelligent as Douglas, himself a potential candidate, could seriously entertain such a notion suggests the extent to which Eisenhower, through no falut of his own, is in danger of being transferred into a sort of father image, with a magic ability to exorcise all the national woes. It also suggests that for the time being at least, Douglas is a sincerely reluctant dragon. Yet time, the pressure of events, and the glittering prize of great office have a way of modifying this sort of reluctance. If the chances are really better than even that Truman will not run, those interested in the Presidential sweepstakes will do well to keep an eye on the gangling economics professor from Illinois.

Alexander F. Watkins, vs. Mamie R. Watkins, No. 22106 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The bill states that the parties were married on December 25th 1948. That the defendant deserted the plaintiff on May 15, 1949, without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted since said date, is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County for more than one year next before the filing of this suit, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and her present address and whereabouts unknown to the plaintiff.

It is thereupon this 9th day of March, 1951 by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 11th day of April, 1951 give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this suit, warning her to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 28th day of April, 1951 to show cause if any she may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Girls Eligible For St. Johns Scholarship

For the first time young women as well as young men in Allegany county are eligible for the state tuition scholarship to St. John's College, according to a recent decision by the attorney general.

When Maryland's oldest and best known liberal arts college went co-ed last December there was doubt as to whether women would be permitted to take advantage of the 52 state scholarships to St. John's until the recent action by the attorney general's office.

Worth $2,600, the presently open four-year tuition scholarship will be awarded by State Senator Robert B. Kimble from the results of examinations given March 31. This year's county high school graduates may inquire from local prineipals for examination details.

The second Allegany scholarship to St. John's, which is for room and board as well as tuition, is now held by junior classman John Milton Twigg, Jr. of Cumberland. This full scholarship will be open in the fall of 1952.

City Commends Senator Kimble's Action In Saving Canal Measure

Possibility Of New Business District Cited

The Mayor and City Council last night strongly commended Senator Robert B. Kimble for his prompt efforts to keep the C and O Canal Parkway land bill alive.

On the recommendation of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, the city will notify Senator Kimble that it is completely in accord with his action and will extend every effort to support his plan to further the national project.

The bill enables the State Roads Commission to acquire land to be turned over to the Federal Government for the C&O Canal Parkway. It was saved from an unfavorable Senate Finance Committee report after a hearing last week. Action by Senator Kimble resulted in the measure being referred to a subcommittee for sturdy and possible revision.

RAYMOND F. WHITEHAIR

Strong opposition from groups in Washington, Frederick and Montgomery Counties had swayed the Finance committee toward an unfavorable report which would have killed the bill. Only Allegany County's delegation spoke in favor of the measure and Kimble's action kept the measure alive.

Opposing parties have expressed concern that wild life in the state has been endangered by the plan and industry would not be allowed access to water in the area thus limiting development of industry.

Proponents of the proposal claim the project will build up industry, protect and increase wild life and fishing in the state and be a tremendous drawing power for tourist trade in Western Maryland.

Another Business District

Thomas B. Finan, former city solicitor, said the plan would undoubtedly open up possibility for an additional business district in Cumberland from the city limits buildings toward Wineow Street.

"It probably would result in a modernization of that section of the city," Finan mused. "Some benefit would come to merchants here due to additional business through an increase in transient trade."

Finan also noted the military aspect of the highway, saying "In time of war it would have great value as a military highway to the nation's capital, and it also would provide employment to many individuals during construction of the throughfare."

Interest Shown

Although members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, have shown great interest in the project, no official action has been taken on the proposal. Leroy Hare, chairman of the local's legislative committee, reported.

Members of the Soil Conservation Commission of Allegany County say that the proposal would have little effect on agriculture in the state but wild life would probably be affected. However no official action has been taken by the commission either in favor or against the plan.

The Mayor and Council last night ordered payment of $60 to the Elks Minstrel Committee for a full page advertisement in the program for the 1951 minstrel. The money will be taken from the Movie Charity Tax fund.

The city also authorized the payment of $20 to the Maryland School for the Blind, Baltimore, for an advertisement in a Dramatic Club program. The money will be taken from the movie fund.

Home Rule Bill, City Parking Plan Approved

The House last night passed and sent to the Senate bills providing for statutory home rule and a municipal parking lot in the City of Cumberland.

The Home Rule measure, HB523, sponsored by the Allegany County Delegation at the request of the Mayor and Council, would authorize the City of Cumberland by public referendum to amend its charter.

Off-Street Parking

House Bill 527, also sponsored by the Delegation, authorizes the Mayor and Council to acquire and maintain off-street parking facilities. It was amended to include a referendum.

A House bill calling for constitutional home rule for this city is in the hands of the House Judiciary committee.

Favor Constitutional

City officials said last night they have no objection to legislation empowering the city to have both constitutional and statutory home rule but frankly prefer the constitutional form.

In a statutory set up, officials said, the city would always be subject to legislative action.

Officials noted the constitutional home rule plan, asked for here, has worked out very satisfactorily in Baltimore and Montgomery Counties, the only parts of the state which have availed themselves of the plan.

Also passed by the House yesterday was SB221, by Senator Fraley of Garrett County, providing for a new charter for the Town of Friendsville, and submitting the charter to a referendum.

City Hall To Close

City Hall will close Friday at noon in observance of Good Friday and will remain closed until Monday morning.

VFW To Hold Election Of Officers

Some opposition is expected as Raymond F. Whitehair seeks his second consecutive term as commander of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars tonight at the post's annual election held at the home, 205 Union Street.

Whitehair two weeks ago was nominated without opposition by George Speis, senior vice-commander. At the same time Roy F. Everstine, post quartermaster since 1940, declined to seek re-election and instead nominated Paul W. Moore as his successor.

Also named without opposition at the organization's nomination of officers March 6 were George Speis, seeking re-election as senior vice-commander; William Raymond, junior vice-commander; Thomas K. Whalley, judge-advocate; Russell Reynolds, chaplain; Dr. Richard J. Williams, surgeon; and Edward C. Kilroy, three-year term as trustee.

Whitehair said last night he was expecting opposition with nominations from the floor at tonight's meeting which will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Area Price Control Meeting Scheduled

The Office of Price Stabilization will hold a public regional meeting at 2 p. m. Monday March 26 in the Franklin Court auditorium, West Franklin Street, Hagerstown.

Attending the meeting will be Edgar McShane, deputy director and Thomas Jacobs, district council. They will be on hand to explain and answer all questions on the General Ceiling Price Regulation dated January 26, 1951 and the Ceiling Price Regulation No. 7 dated February 27, 1951.

All area retailers and wholesalers are invited to be present at the meeting.

Simpson Elected New Outdoor Club Head

Also elected were Paul O. Weber, vice-president; Lee Fuller, recording secretary; Van Johnson, financial secretary; Roy Durrett, treasurer; George Keifer, trustee chairman; and George Hixenbaugh and Howard Kuhns, trustees.

A movie was shown and refreshments served after the meeting.

Installation of these officers will be held at 6:30 p. m. April 2 in the club room.

Library Will Close

The Cumberland Free Public Library will be closed all day Good Friday, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said yesterday.

The library's South End Branch at Pennsylvania Avenue School will remain closed through the public schools' long Easter vacation. This holiday will begin at 1 p. m. Thursday and classes will resume Monday morning, April 2.

WEATHER

Cumberland and surrounding sections were drenched by a steady downpour most of the day yesterday but the promised snow failed to materialize here. Some sleet was reported, however. City Opposes Transfer Of Racing Dates

Buchholtz Says Plan Would Hike Revenue

The Mayor and Council last night adopted a resolution opposing the transfer by the State Racing Commission of additional racing dates to Cumberland.

The only opposition to the plan came from Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, who said the city receives a large part of its revenue from racing.

To try to limit the action of the commission is to "bite the hand that feeds us," Commissioner Buchholtz said in pointing out that in 1950, Cumberland received $36,000 for its operating expenses from state shared racing income.

Extension of the racing season at Fairgo also met firm opposition from the Allegany County Delegation, which introduced a House Resolution prohibiting such a move.

Final Rites For Auto Victim Set Wednesday

Driver To Be Held For Manslaughter

A funeral service for Mrs. Jounetia Evelyn Wilson, 24, of RFD 2 Keyser, who was fatally injured in a highway mishap early Sunday morning, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the George Funeral Home. Rev. M. A. Keesecker, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will be in Zion Memorial Burial Park.

Mrs. Wilson died Sunday night in Memorial Hospital from injuries of the right chest which she received in the fatal accident.

The driver Harry Preston Cox, also of RFD 2 Keyser, will be charged with involuntary manslaughter and will be permitted to post bond pending action by the Mineral County grand jury. Cpl. O. G. Webley, West Virginia State Police is conducting an investigation.

Two other occupants of the car Mrs. Catherine Cox, wife of the driver and James Mercure, Tunnelton, W. Va. who were also admitted to Memorial Hospital were reported as being "apparently good" last night by hospital authorities. The driver received minor bruises.

The accident occurred early Sunday morning when the party of four were returning from a Saturday night dance. The driver said he was blinded by lights of an oncoming car. He pulled over to the right and then back to the left of the road when he lost control of the car and plunged about 37 feet over a seven-foot enbankment and into a large tree. Mrs. Wilson was sitting in the right rear of the vehicle which struck the tree.

Mrs. Wilson was born in Hammond, W. Va., a daughter of Leslie C. and Anna Brown Phillips, RFD 2 Keyser, with whom she resided. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Besides her parents, she leaves two children, Leslie Raymond and Ruth Ann Wilson, three brothers, William L. Phillips, Bedford Road, Albert Jerald Phillips, Cumberland and Leslie Phillips Jr. at home and a sister Mrs. Cox.

Weatherman Predicts Snow

Residents of Cumberland and the tri-state area may look forward to heavy snowfall today which is predicted in a special bulletin from the United States Weather Bureau by the Associated Press.

The bureau said that four to six inches of snow had fallen in Ohio yesterday and similar amounts were expected for this section of the country.

"The snow was falling along the leading edge of an air mass which had moved eastward and had stalled just west of the Appalachian mountains," the Bureau said. "A low pressure disturbance was expected to intensify along the front and be located over West Virginia late last night."

Bureau spokesmen said also small craft warnings had been ordered along the east coast early in the day for winds which were expected to increase as the low pressure area developed farther inland.

Highway travel was hindered last night west of Frostburg by fog and a slow drizzle of rain. State Police at Romney reported rain in that area although the roads were clear to traffic.

He said the one-year pact, effective as of March 1, includes a wage increase.

Machinists Join In Campaign On Smoke Ordinance

Lodge Believes It Keeps Out Industry

The International Association of Machinists, Lodge No. 212, last night joined the fight against Cumberland's Smoke Control Ordinance, contending that this is the chief reason why new industry is not attracted to Cumberland.

C. F. Schelble, secretary of Lodge No. 212, said that his organization, at its meeting last night at the Odd Fellows Hall on Virginia Avenue, unanimously added its endorsement to the fight started by the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference.

Urge United Effort

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference recently began a drive to urge all residents and citizens of Cumberland to unite in an effort to have the Mayor and City Council repeal the present Smoke Control Ordinance. The conference leaders believe that the smoke program here is the chief deterrent to industrial expansion of Cumberland.

Schelble said his organization also believes that the condition of Cumberland streets and the odors from the Potomac River, especially in the summer months, are other factors which discourage new industry.

"Not only is the Smoke Control Ordinance keeping new industry out, it also is driving some of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad operations out of this city," Schelble asserted.

City Looks Badly

"It is much better to have industry, with its dirt, providing jobs which enable us to buy soap and other necessary cleaning fluids than to have no jobs with which to buy soap," the lodge secretary declared.

From an economy standpoint, Schelble believes the city could save money by abolishing the Smoke Control Department. These funds could be used to repair the streets and clean up the river, he added.

Continual repair of Cumberland's streets make visitors believe the city is in a bad financial condition, Schelble believes.

"The railroads know that smoke is waste and do not have to be told it is economical not to have smoke," the lodge official concluded.

Five Jaycees Attend State Directors Meet

Plans Completed For Annual Convention

Five Cumberlanders were among the 50 members of the State Junior Association of Commerce who attended a Board of Directors meeting Saturday and Sunday in the House of Delegates Chamber at Annapolis.

Plans were completed for the State Convention to be held May 5-6 at Silver Spring. Headquarters will be the Montgomery Blair Junior High School with the evening dinner-dance being held at the Naval Officers Club in Bethesda.

This year the State Junior Association of Commerce will sponsor the Miss Maryland Beauty Contest. Tentative plans are to hold the pageant at Queen City, Md. The date has not yet been announced.

Plans were also made at the meeting for Cumberland's entrance in the state competition of the National Junior Golf Tournament, a sports event of the fall season. The state eliminations will be held at the Congressional Country Club near Washington, D. C.

The finals in national competition will be held at Duke University Golf Course in the fall.

Tables Rent Control

The Mayor and Council last night tabled for one week any city action on the continuance of rent control in this city.

Long Defends Right To Make Changes In Department; Council Votes Confidence

Commissioner John J. Long last night received a vote of confidence from the Mayor and Council for the operation of the Police Department, including the appointment of Lt. Edwin R. Lilya as head of the department's Detective Bureau.

The action came as a result of a query of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz concerning Lt. Lilya's appointment in view of the fact that the Mayor and Council last September 18 appointed Detective Thomas J. See to head the Detective Bureau.

He said the action made it appear that the Council does not have confidence in Detective See, and added that the former order had not been rescinded.

Commissioner Long said the action was taken since the Detective Bureau has been in need of additional help.

In witness to the need, he said, are "robberies, 'teen age drinking, complaints of a disorderly house on Charles Street and gambling.

"Inasmuch as we had a lieutenant who was FBI trained in the Police Department, and in fact who originally set up the Detective Bureau, the solution was to take Lt. Lilya off traffic and put him in charge of the Detective Bureau."

He pointed out that Detective See has not been demoted and defended his right to move departments around for greater efficiency.

"I am attempting to do a good job," the commissioner said, "and everything that is done is questioned."

Following the vote of confidence, Commissioner Long referred to the surprise raid made Saturday on an alleged bookmaking establishment.

He said the warrant for the raid was issued by the State's Attorney and that more will be heard of the action later.

South End Group Urges Stricter Smoke Control

Program Is Favored If Law Is Enforced

The South End Businessmen's Association yesterday favored stricter enforcement of the present city ordinance on smoke control and continuance of the program, in a resolution drawn up at their bi-weekly luncheon meeting.

Forty-one members attended the meeting with the discussion of the smoke abatement program as the chief topic. The resolution stated that with the background material developed in respect to the problem during the past three years the association felt that the Mayor and City Council should place emphasis on correction of violations based upon the three-year study.

Stating further that the smoke abatement engineer had reported to them that the present city ordinance was satisfactory the association advocated continuance of the program with more strict enforcement.

James L. Weber also reported to the group that Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder had promised completion of grading and cindering of Fifth Street thru Montreal and Blackiston Avenue. Mrs. Roeder explained that weather had held up the project and that the fill on First Street would be completed prior to beginning work on the extension of Fifth Street. Work in the Mapleside section was expected to be completed by the end of Spring.

Also discussed was the placing of new street lights from Oldtown Road to the Virginia Avenue subway which was promised the association by Commissioner of Water George H. Tederick last fall.

The association appointed Joseph Reinhart to report on the status of the lights situation.

The next meeting of the group will be held April 2 at the Community Hall, Second Street, with Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, as guest speaker. His topic will be a report on the plans for an overhead bridge in the city.

City Junk Dealer Told To Enclose Firm's Property

April 16 Set As Deadline Date

The Mayor and Council last night gave the Feldstein Iron and Metal Company until April 16 to comply with terms of its occupancy permit at 130 Wineow Street.

The action was taken by the city officials after Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, asked that Feldstein's license to operate a junk yard in that location be revoked because of failure to comply with an occupancy permit issued in 1945.

Mrs. Roeder recounted the long history of the business establishment, especially citing the point that in 1949, Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, called Feldstein's attention to the fact that the permit was granted by the Mayor and Council with the provision that the storage space be enclosed with a fence.

Previous Inspection Held

Mrs. Roeder pointed out that on March 12, an inspection of the property showed there was no evidence of Feldstein's having started a fence and that in addition to the 100 feet allowed in the permit, he is occupying 120 feet between the original junk yard and the service station, and 158 feet south of the junk yard, as well as space across on the westerly side of the junk yard.

Repeated efforts have been made by the city for years, she said, to get Feldstein to enclose the property with a fence. There have been many complaints from the public, she added, that the place is an eyesore.

Mayor Objects

Mayor Thomas S. Post objected to Mrs. Roeder's recommendation for the immediate lifting of the permit, saying he wanted assurance that the action would accomplish its purpose.

Pointing to the fact that Feldstein has been a taxpayer for many years, Commissioner John J. Long suggested that a definite date be set for the building of a fence. He added that the junk should definitely be removed from the ball park.

2,800 License Sets Available

About 2,800 sets of new Maryland license plates still are on hand in the office of Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat in the Allegany County Court House, he said yesterday afternoon.

Since the sale began February 26, Treat has had 10,000 sets of plates. Another 2,000 sets are expected about Thursday and Treat is hopeful of getting an additional 3,000 sets before the deadline March 31.

Disposal of 466 more sets yesterday brought to about 7,200 the number sold to automobile owners here.

Some concern about license plates locally developed after Thomas B. R. Mudd, commissioner of motor vehicles, announced over the weekend that the supply of license plates to fill mail orders had been exhausted because of the inability to obtain steel for their manufacture.

House Adopts Uniform Plan On Vacations

City Is Asked To Standardize Policy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19 (AP)—The House tonight adopted a resolution asking the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland to standardize vacation periods for the several classes of city employes.

The resolution sponsored by Delegates See and Reed said the city seems to grant different vacation periods among types of employes despite the fact the charter refers to a period of 15 days with pay.

The resolution added that "it would be helpful to the morale of city employes if all were placed on an equal basis so far as vacation leave is concerned."

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday introduced House Bill 632, which would raise the maximum tax levy in the City of Cumberland for general city purposes from 90 to 95 cents per $100 of assessable property.

The bill was referred to the Delegation for action.

The county legislators, in sponsoring the bill to enable the city to increase its tax for operating expenses by five cents, rejected increases asked by city employes.

Also introduced in the House yesterday was HB636, by the Garrett Delegation, to allow persons aged 70 or over to fish in non-tidal waters without a permit.

Opinions Differ In Shooting Of Kingwood Man

Pickets Claim They Did Not Use Threat

By JACK DAVIS

KINGWOOD, W. Va., March 19 (AP)—The body of coal miner Joe Arnold was brought back to his home town today amid continued tension over trouble between union and non-union sympathizers.

The 29-year-old coal loader was shot to death Saturday night nearly 200 miles away in the front yard of a non-union foreman.

State Police said the foreman, George Burnett Hudson, had admitted the fatal shooting and the wounding of two of Arnold's companions.

Both sides had their versions of the gun play. About the only similarity was the names.

Hudson, who lives near Clay, in central West Virginia, but worked in this northern field, was quoted as saying he shot the man after they threatened him and his family if he returned to Preston County to work.

Pickets Version

The pickets' version, however, was that the three only asked Hudson not to come back to the Kingwood area. There were no threats, they said.

The operators last Tuesday asked for an injunction against the picketing by the union sympathizers. Circuit Judge C. P. Wilhelm has not indicated when he will act on the petition.

The operators think the injunction, if granted, would arrest the current strife before it graduates into more bloodshed.

The pickets, however, believe it will not be granted, or if it is, that it will have sufficient loopholes for them to continue peaceful picketing.

Preston Unorganized

Preston County is one of the few sections of the state that has not been organized by the United Mine Workers. The operators say they cannot afford to pay the union wage scale.

The mines in this field produce only about five tons of coal a man per day, they reason, compared with from 10 to 15 tons daily in the larger, mechanized mines with larger seams and holdings.

Anyway, they add, over a year's time the non-union miners make more money because they aren't plagued with strikes or slowdowns.

The union sympathizers point in the other direction. They say there's no job or pension security without the UMW, and the non-union pay scale is too low even to talk about.

Home Of W. M. Hudson Damaged By Fire

Damages estimated at $200 resulted in a fire last night at the home of Wilbur M. Hudson, 208 New Hampshire Avenue, South End firemen answered the call at 8:38 p. m. and fought the blaze for an hour and twenty minutes.

The fire started between the partition of the bathroom at floor level and spread up through the eaves to the roof. Firemen were compelled to chop away part of the bathroom wall to get to the blaze.

The cause of the blaze was not known last night and an investigation will be held today.
